Japs Make Demands On Russia

U.S. Turns Over Four Tankers To Soviet

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Harold Ickes, defence petroleum administrator, announced today four United States tanker ships are being turned over to Russia to transport aviation gasoline.

At the same time he said a shortage of aviation gasoline in the United States, with possible severe effects on military and commercial flying, was likely unless the capacity for producing this high octane fuel is increased immediately.

The transfers to Russia might contribute to a limited general petroleum shortage in west coast areas, he said.

Mr. Ickes told newsmen that a compulsory plan to conserve gasoline on the east coast "may not be very far ahead". He said that gasoline consumption on the Atlantic seaboard had increased materially in the last two weeks, despite the widespread effort to influence motorists voluntarily to curtail consumption.

The problem of increasing United States capacity for producing aviation gasoline, which requires special machinery, will be taken up by Mr. Ickes Monday at a meeting here of chairmen of regional oil industry committees.

Air-Borne Tank Attack On Smolensk Wiped Out

MOSCOW, Aug. 7.—(AP)—A German attack by air-borne light tanks and a large force of parachutists has been "liquidated" by the defenders of Smolensk, on the road to Moscow, and the city was still in Russian hands five days ago, according to a letter published here today.

The letter, dated Aug. 2, was attributed to one of the defenders of Smolensk—written, it was said, to his father in Moscow. It pictured the three-week siege of Smolensk as the greatest battle thus far in the Russian-German conflict.

The high command reporting today that fighting was still in progress in the Smolensk sector, implied that the Russians still held the town. (The Germans claim to have captured Smolensk July 16.)

LENINGRAD DRIVE HALTS

The letter did not say just how the light tanks were landed, but declared the Germans were wiped out before they could gain a foothold in the city. The letter was said to have been brought out of Smolensk by hand, indicating the road to Moscow, 200 miles away, was still in Russian control.

The Russians indicated today a new German-Finnish push toward Leningrad from the north had fizzled out but reported heavy fighting south of that city, in the Smolensk sector west of Moscow and in the Ukraine front.

Failure of the afternoon communique to mention a battle which had been reported raging all day yesterday on the Karelian Isthmus northeast of Leningrad was taken here to mean that pres-

Soviet Is Not Likely To Accede

By ROBERT P. MARTIN

SHANGHAI, Aug. 7.—(BUP)—Diplomats heard reports today that Japan had asked Russia to demilitarize Vladivostok and a zone along the entire Manchukuan border, to give Japan economic concessions in Siberia and Skhalin Island, and to guarantee that the United States will get no bases in Russia.

Diplomats doubted that Russia would consider such demands unless the situation in the west made it imperative that she make a deal to prevent a Japanese invasion of Siberia.

The ouster of Yosuke Matsuoka as Japanese foreign minister has nullified the Russo-Japanese neutrality pact which he negotiated, diplomats believed, and the pact would not prevent Japan from putting strong pressure on Russia.

EXCLUSIVE

Amid increasing rumors (in some quarters said to be of Japanese origin) of closer Chinese-British co-operation due to what the British consider a Japanese threat to Burma, Domei, official Japanese news agency, reported today that China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had mobilized 50 divisions in Kwangsi, Yunnan and Hunan provinces for the defence of southwest China and that another 20 divisions were in position to be sent to Burma to aid in British defence. Domei said British and Australian forces have established headquarters at Kochiu, in southeast Yannan.

Britain had denied the existence of a military agreement with China but reports from Chungking said British-Chinese discussions had reached a "concrete stage," which British foreign secretary Anthony Eden's speech to commons yesterday was taken to confirm.

It was doubted that Britain would militarily oppose Japanese occupation of north Thailand, although occupation of the Kra isthmus in the south might bring a crisis, observers said.

The Anglo-American answer to further Japanese aggression probably would be a complete American-Dutch oil embargo and possibly a joint Anglo-American guarantee of the integrity of The Netherlands East Indies, observers said. It was believed also that British might bring pressure on Moscow to make the Anglo-Russian pact operative in the Far East, thereby lining up a solid front against Japan from Australia through the Dutch East Indies, Singapore, Chungking and Vladivostok.

Thailand Is Expected To Resist Japanese Pressure

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP)—Thailand is expected to resist any attempt by Japan to invade her, and British aid, military or material, will be conditioned by the United States response to the situation, it was declared here today in the course of an authoritative review.

The source for this statement pictured Britain as much stronger and ready for offensive action in the Middle East where, the informant declared, Britain already has halted a Nazi drive toward the Suez Canal. This was a reference to the defence of Egypt's western frontier, west of Suez, and the dominance Britain has won in Syria and Iraq, on the other flank of Suez.

Now, he said, the British military position from the border of Turkey to the border of Libya is so strong that the Axis is talking nervously of British assaults on Libya, Sicily or the Greece islands.

This source acknowledged that the Germans still held the initiative in the Russian campaign although, he said, the German high command is gravely concerned over the slowness of the advance and the very heavy casualties.

The world-wide military situation, as described in this review, follows:

Middle East

British blows against the Germans at Salum, on the Egyptian-Libyan frontier, although apparently indecisive, have taken such a toll of German armored fighting vehicles that the possibility of a large scale German attack toward Alexandria and Cairo has been virtually ruled out.

Tobruk, Libyan stronghold still in British hands, lies as a constant threat to the flank of any major Axis offensive into Egypt.

The triumph in Iraq was one of the first brakes put on the vast

Japan Intentions Called 'Peaceful'

TOKYO, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Japanese board of information today termed "unwarranted" the statements by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the British foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, expressed concern over Japanese intentions toward Thailand.

Japan's intentions are "peaceful", the board said, and added that an Anglo-American press campaign alleging Japanese threats to Thailand tends "to worsen the feeling of the Japanese toward Britain and the United States."

A Japanese naval spokesman said the ultimate price of United States aid to Russia would be American naval and air bases in Siberia.

He called this "threatening Japan from the back."

The spokesman, Capt. Hideo Hiraide, said the Russian-German war could have a great effect on Japan if the Russian government should move to the east from Moscow.

"When the Soviet does this and wants to continue as an independent country," he said, "it must receive a third country. That country is the United States. The United States undoubtedly will want a reward, which undoubtedly is the asking of naval and air bases in eastern Soviet territory."

Capt. Hiraide added: "With the United States aiding Chungking and England challenging the attitude of our alliance partner (Germany), Japan cannot continue to keep quiet. . . .

"In fact, considering movements of the United States and Britain in China, we may consider Japan to be but a step from entering the world upheaval."

Rumors constantly repeated here say that Russia has perhaps 80 submarines and many bombers in her big far eastern port of Vladivostok, with range of Japan's industrial cities.

Germany Eyeing North America

MOSCOW, Aug. 7.—(BUP)—The Russian newspaper "Pravda" says that Germany will spare no effort to subjugate the North American continent. Aim to back up this statement the publication cites instances of German intrigue in the United States and South America. The paper also draws attention to German efforts to obtain control of French bases for operations against America.

"The Hitlerite menace," this paper says, "looms over the whole world."

Pravda adds, however, that a coalition of great powers has been formed to oppose Hitler and says that Russian gratitude is felt for the co-operation shown by the United States.

Duke Of Kent Goes To Pacific Coast

CALGARY, Aug. 7 — (CP) — A small guard presented arms, a bugle sounded, and a handful of onlookers cheered Prince George, tall and the sleek black car, with the handsome, young air force officer sitting easily at the wheel, swung smoothly around the corner into the grounds of the No. 3 Service Flying Training School.

Half an hour later, with a few smiling informal goodbyes, the same young officer climbed into his red and silver monoplane, and His Royal Highness the Duke of Kent was on his way, in a flood of Alberta sunshine, over the Rocky Mountains to Vancouver.

Confers In City

James M. Macdonnell, Toronto, president and general manager of the National Trust Company, who has arrived in the city to attend a conference with provincial government officials on Alberta bonds.

Bond Officials Here For Meet With Province

J. M. Macdonnell, Toronto, president and general manager of the National Trust Company and H. W. Tatlock, of South Orange, New Jersey, representing the Prudential Insurance Company of America are guests at the Macdonald hotel. They will attend the meeting of bondholders Thursday, as a preliminary with a conference with Premier William Aberhart and members of his cabinet at the legislative buildings Friday.

The conference, requested by the bondholders, is to seek ways and means of solving the problem created by the defaults on provincial bonds.

A group of Alberta representatives of bondholders will join Mr. Macdonnell and Mr. Tatlock in their deliberations Thursday. It is expected that R. D. Tighe, K.C., of this city, will be among those attending.

Those attending the conference representing Calgary interests are H. A. Howard, R. C. Carlyle, A. D. Cumming and C. B. Clarke.

The Thursday meeting will seek to draft a definite program on which to approach the government.

HIGHER RATE

It is expected the bondholders will not only seek some way of meeting the total amount of Alberta maturities in default but will also endeavor to obtain an increase in the rate of interest now being paid on the bonds. Since 1936 the government has been paying one half the coupon rate of interest.

The government has accumulated a trust fund of about $5,000,000 which lies in the Imperial bank awaiting the cashing of coupons by those bondholders willing to accept the reduced interest rate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—(BUP)—The war department announced today that approximately 100 Canadian officers and non-commissioned officers are studying mechanized war technique in the American army's armored force.

The department said that the Canadians are taking 10-week to three-month courses on motorcycle operation, tank mechanics and maintenance, radio operation, gunnery, communications and automobile mechanics.

On duty with the First Armored Division are 20 Canadian officers. Sixteen other Canadian officers are with the Second Armored Division. The remainder of the Canadians are students at the Fort Knox, Ky., armored force school.

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has accepted the chairmanship of the National Employment Committee. A nominee will be selected by the manufacturers, another by the Canadian Legion, and it is understood that a woman will also be appointed.

Mr. Moore was previously offered a portfolio of labor but declined. Labor leaders intimate that an outstanding Labor man who went into the cabinet would be alright until the cabinet had to refuse some Labor plea, then Labor would turn on their minister and accuse him of having sold them out. So Mr. Moore and others have shied clear of the portfolio, which is now held by a lawyer, Hon. Norman McLarty, to the satisfaction of Labor generally.

Interpreting War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

IF the German victory claims trumpeted from Hitler's headquarters are correct the war in Russia should be all but over; yet the Nazi leader tells his people that the greatest battles are still to be fought.

Recently the Germans estimated that 8,000,000 troops were engaged in the titanic struggle and now they reported that Russian losses to date have aggregated almost half of that number—from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000.

Russian war gear, planes, tanks, and guns, by the lens of thousands have been destroyed, Hitler asserts. Yet as the upshot of all this, he can only tell his people that his armies stand "at the gates of Kiev" and are still 100 miles from Leningrad and twice that far from Moscow.

What is still holding the Germans at bay on all three fronts if the flower of the Red army is already destroyed, Russian leadership paralyzed and without accurate knowledge of the situation, " the

Probe Reports Workers Shot At

HAMILTON, Aug. 7—(CP)—Police said today they investigated reports last night that employees of the National Steel Car Corporation were shot at on their way to work, but no trace was found of a marksman.

The plant has been the scene of two recent strikes, but it was announced last night that employees of government officials running the plant had come to an acceptable understanding of all points under dispute.

Keith West, secretary of the newly formed National Steel Car Employees' Association, said one of two shots heard by him and Frank Barnes sent a bullet close by Barnes' head.

Canadian Corvettes Aid Atlantic Battle

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—(CP)—The work of Canada's corvettes and the action of the United States in carrying out patrols has "eased off" the battle on the Atlantic, Master-at-Arms Donald Mitchell of the Royal Navy said in an interview here today.

Here on leave, Mitchell, who was a member of the crew of the aircraft carrier Illustrious, said, "I think the battle of the Atlantic has passed the worst part. It has eased off since the Americans are doing what they are—sending patrols where they are sending them—and since the corvettes, built here, have gone into action on the Atlantic."

Mitchell said he saw corvettes in action in the Mediterranean also.

London Quarters Speculate On Eden's "Next Forward Plunge"

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP)—Commentators speculating on the direction of the "next forward plunge" in the Middle East pledged by Foreign Secretary Eden in the House of Commons suggested today two alternatives—another attack on Italian north Africa or a move into the Russian oil field area to aid Russia.

A seasoned army of 500,000 men now is ready, these sources said, equipped with planes, tanks, guns and munitions which have poured in from Britain and the United States in recent months.

Some strategists suggested a holding force might be left on the Egyptian frontier while troops based in Syria could move to oppose any Nazi thrust at the Russian oil fields. These troops might move through friendly Turkey, Iraq or even Iran, they said. British forces now in Syria also might help to protect Turkey.

VALUE IS DOUBTED

Some observers thought a drive into Cirenaica for a real cleanup of the Axis forces in Africa was likely.

The best season for operations in the Libyan desert is not due for six weeks, when cooler weather begins, but Allied troops were believed to have remembered the lesson taught them by the Germans when the latter moved across Cirenaica in sweltering April weather thought too hot for attack.

One source said he believed the Allies could take Libya tomorrow, but doubted whether the gain would be worth the expenditure of men and arms.

A comparatively small, well-equipped army could hold a strong line on the frontier while other troops went to aid the Turks or help the Russians defend the oil centres, this source said.

Defence of Russia's Caucasus oil wells was considered vital here. The wells produce 25,000,000 tons annually.

Newspapers welcomed Mr. Eden's warning yesterday that British forces in the Middle East soon would be on the move again.

"We are concentrating a great army and it is plain that offensive operations may not be long delayed," the Daily Mail said. It also advised against talk of "throwing a British force on the shore of Europe."

Throwing may also be "throwing away," the Mail said, and "we should have learned that from bitter experience."

EXCLUSIVE

A conservatively-worded dispatch by the United Press Berlin bureau said that reports have been in circulation in the Nazi capital for several days that German gains on the eastern front are possible only at a high cost in casualties.

The German high command took official cognizance of the prevalence of what it described as "false conception" within Germany in issuing its series of special communiques on the Russian campaign which started yesterday.

CALLED "MODERATE"

The communiques presented specific figures on Russian losses in men, planes, tanks and guns but have made no statement on Nazi losses except to report them as "moderate" in the big Smolensk battle.

A Nazi spokesman was closely questioned by newspapermen in Berlin today on the reports of heavy Nazi losses. He insisted that German casualties have been kept "within previous limits" and are in the same proportion for the Russian campaign as for previous Nazi offensives, asking into consideration the greater number of troops employed. He said that the gross figures are higher than in other Nazi campaigns but made no estimate of the totals.

Military sources in Moscow and London have estimated that German losses have been high in Russia, guesses and estimates ranging up to possibly 1,000,000 men. Neutral quarters believe the Nazi casualties are running high, but possibly not as high as those of the Russian defenders which the Germans place at 4,000,000 men.

INTERNAL TROUBLE

It appeared that of even greater significance than the actual German losses in Russia was the apparent indication of internal repercussions within Germany.

Due to the tight Nazi control upon all channels of information concerning the Reich there was no means of telling how the German populace has reacted to the appearance of troop trains of wounded soldiers, casualty reports and circulation of wide-mouth rumors concerning Nazi losses.

However, it seemed plain that unless these reports and rumors were widespread the Nazi high command would not take cognizance of them and correspondents held to rigid responsibility for every word which they cable abroad, would not mention them in their dispatches.

GERMANS TRYING TO SOFTEN U.S. RESISTANCE

Nazis Offer Gold Looted From Conquered Countries

U.S. Treasury Officers Believe Hitler Plans Great Peace Offensive

By EDGAR ANSEL MOWRER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(CDN)—German readiness to turn frozen dollar assets into mark holdings or even to deliver to Americans at Lisbon gold presumably looted from conquered countries in turn for American holdings in Germany or victim countries, has convinced American treasury officials that the Germans are preparing a great peace offensive on the basis of their "new order," and are trying to soften any existing resistance on the part of American businessmen.

For this and for other reasons, the foreign funds control is struggling hard to prevent such transactions with loot, whether frozen here or not, especially when in favor of certain American creditors and to the detriment of others. Naturally, therefore, the control seems to be awakening the hostility of those Americans who would benefit by the said transactions.

A case in point is that of the Silesian American Corporation. This corporation, which owns copper properties in Polish Silesia now under German control, is so much foreign-owned that it is treated as the $2,500,000 worth of bonds outstanding here and its owner, the Silesian Holding Company, is largely American-owned. Another Swiss company Ikap for short, has $4,000,000 frozen under the foreign funds control. One would imagine that Ikap would be delighted to have so much money here, out of reach of European tempests. To the contrary: Ikap wants to get its hands on the American share of the copper properties in Poland. It has, therefore, offered to turn over its frozen four million, $2,500,000 to the Silesian American Corporation bondholders, and $1,500,000 to the American owners, Brown Brothers-Harriman and Anaconda Copper.

SNATCHED BY CONQUEST

That's fine—says the treasury—for those Americans who get paid off. But why should the Ikap people want to do this? If Ikap is genuinely Swiss, such investment shows a surprising desire to switch from dollar assets to mining properties of doubtful title in Poland now being exploited by Germany. Can it be that Ikap is either German or working in the interest of Germans? If so, conceivably the $4,000,000 that Ikap is offering here been snatched by conquest from one or more of the invaded countries whose assets the United States is trying to protect.

Can the American administration be a party to such a steal? And just what are the Germans up to? Are they not trying to ingratiate themselves with certain American business interests with a view to building up the latter's tacit acquiescence to a movement launch a peace campaign based on their alleged "new order"? Is it proper that the Silesian American Corporation bondholders and the American copper people be repaid in full when other, equally good American creditors of Germany are receiving nothing?

CONSIDERABLE PRESSURE

These are the sort of questions the officials of the Foreign Funds Control are facing not only in this case but in a dozen similar cases. In the process they are resisting considerable pressure from the Americans who might benefit by what the treasury is trying to stop.

Chance seems to be, however, that what the treasury considers morally right and politically preferable will prevail and no preferential treatment will be given to particular Americans dangled out by Germany and no loot from conquered peoples will be used to buy off any Americans.

The treasury people feel that there is a sound basis for belief that Ikap is nothing but a front for German interests that are trying to acquire a legal title to stolen properties and offering payment in stolen funds for which they have no other immediate use. Unless some one can convince them that this is a mistake, transactions like the one proposed by Ikap will continue to be frowned upon.

Vichy Actions To Influence States

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. — (BUP) —Secretary of State Cordell Hull indicated today that America's attitude toward the Vichy government will depend on France's future action rather than on her note of assurance that she will defend her territories.

Hull gave that indication to press conference after he confirmed receipt of the note from the regime of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain. The note was in response to a state- Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles had made last week approving Vichy for agreeing to a "joint defence" of Indo-China with Japan.

Hull said that he desired to await developments a little further before making any comment on the Vichy note.

It is import, he explained, to see the general trend of conditions before discussing the note fully and finally in view of the rapidity with which events transpire nowadays.

U.S. Senate Votes Longer Army Term

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—(AP)—With administration forces in command, the United States senate voted today to keep army selectees, national guardsmen, reserves and enlisted men in uniform 18 months beyond their present active service periods.

After beating off a Republican-sponsored attempt yesterday to limit the extra duty requirement to one year, the chamber adopted an amendment by Senator Elbert Thomas (Dem.-Utah) to pending legislation fixing the maximum service liability of selectees, guardsmen and reserves at 2½ years, instead of the present one year. Men who enlisted for three years could be retained 4½ years. The vote was 44 to 28.

Previously, sponsors had proposed that the citizen soldiers and regulars be kept in uniform for an indefinite period.

The Thomas amendment provided that Congress could extend the additional 18-months period if it subsequently found it necessary to do so in the interest of national defence. It also could terminate the legislation by passage of a concurrent resolution.

Final Senate approval of the revised measure was expected to follow swiftly.

R.A.F. Pierces Nazi Camouflage

Germany went to great pains to camouflage oft-bombed Hamburg, but the R. A. F. took these before-and-after photos and unmasked the deception. To conceal Binnen Alster, the basin was covered with huge rafts to represent a built-up area, and to divert attention from Lombardsbruecke bridge (A), a wooden replica (B) was erected 600 yards north of the original.

Axis Intends Control World Is U.S. Belief

By LLOYD LEHRBAS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—(AP) —The United States government, it was learned today, believes Japan's pressure hid for control of Thailand is part of a well-patterned Axis plan to seize control of the oceans and thereby dominate the world.

The latest Japanese moves were described as dovetailing perfectly with German demands on Vichy for military and naval bases in French colonial possessions, particularly at Dakar.

All evidence available, an informed source stated, points to a coordinated drive by Germany to control all strategic bases in the Atlantic, while Japan seized similar objectives in the Pacific.

DOMINATE SEAS

"When—and if—Germany and Japan accomplish that ambitious objective," a ranking official said, "the Axis powers could join forces across the southern oceans and dominate the seas, isolating the Americas for a co-ordinated attack from the Pacific and the Atlantic."

To win that "stranglehold on the world," it was pointed out, the Germans and Japanese must first seize the British and French strong points which guarantee the world's seaways, and officials said the aggressive plans now in motion have that objective.

Since Japan represents one of the jaws in the gigantic pincers movement, an authoritative source stated, Japanese encroachment in Indo-China and Thailand cannot be considered in the category of isolated aggression, but must be treated as a vital element in the Nazis strategy.

For this reason, it was explained, the United States has assumed a forceful diplomatic policy designed both to stiffen Vichy resistance to German demands and to warn Japan against further military adventures in the South Pacific before it is too late.

CLUES TO STRATEGY

As outlined by informed sources the present clues to the Axis grand strategy are:

1—German demands on Vichy for the base at Dakar for naval operations in the South Atlantic, and also for bases along the Mediterranean to give the Nazis control of that strategic sea and to facilitate the capture of the Suez canal.

2—Expected Nazi demands on Spain to permit the passage of troops for an attack on Gibraltar that would permit the Italian navy, now imprisoned in the Mediterranean, to move into the Atlantic.

3—Japan's expansion of the naval and military bases obtained in Indo-China and the resultant threat to British Malaya, Singapore and the Philippines.

4—Japan's demands on Thailand which, if won, would put the Japanese in position for air and naval ops for attacks on Singapore and the rich East Indies, but also for an overland drive through Burma and India to meet Axis forces striking southeast through Iraq and Iran.

Italians Admit Renewed R.A.F. Sicily Attacks

ROME, Aug. 7—(UP)—The Italian high command today admits that Royal Air Force planes have renewed their attacks on the island of Sicily. The latest British attacks were made on Augusta and Catania—both of which probably are being used by the Italians as air bases.

The Italian reports, however, give no details of the attack.

At the same time, the Rome communique says that British forces have been active in the Tobruk area of Libya. But again the Italians fail to give any details.

All Men Between 18-60 Must Enrol As Fireguards

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP)—Compulsory enrolment of all men between 18 and 60 as fireguards in Britain's vulnerable areas was announced today by Herbert Morrison, home secretary.

The fireguards will be made an integral part of the wardens service with organized training.

The effect of the move means that men who are firewatching in business premises will have the assurance their own homes are being guarded during their absence.

Duce's Son Killed

Bruno Mussolini, above, son of the Italian dictator, was killed today near Pisa, Italy, when the plane which he was testing crashed.

Mussolini Son, Bruno, Killed In Test Flight

ROME, Aug. 7—(AP)—Capt. Bruno Mussolini, 23, who abided by his father's admonition to "live dangerously," was killed today in the crash of a long range bomber he was testing as commander of a detachment that was to use the plane.

He died at 10 a.m., near Pisa. Bruno was born April 22, 1918, at Milan, while his father, at head of the young Fascist movement, was editing the newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia. Bruno was the premier's second son.

DUCE FLIES TO PISA

Two other fliers—the second pilot and a mechanic—were killed in the crash, while the remaining members of the eight-man crew were injured.

"This morning Capt. Bruno Mussolini died gloriously near Pisa following an accident in the flight of an experimental plane," said the official announcement.

Bruno was married in 1938 to Gina Ruberti. They had one child, Marina, now 17 months old. The crash leaves Premier Mussolini with four children, Countess Edda Ciano, 30, wife of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano; Anna Maria, 11, Vittorio, 24, and Romano, 13.

"LIVED DANGEROUSLY"

The Italian radio announcer said Bruno always had "lived dangerously" and called him "one of the most representative members of Fascist youth."

He showed "a high sense of sacrifice as a volunteer fighter in Spain's anti-Bolshevik war," the announcer added.

Bruno also piloted planes for Italy in the Ethiopian war in 1935-36. Little had been known of his activities in the present war until the disclosure that he had died as a test pilot.

Nazis Say Soviet Losses Are Great

BERLIN, Aug. 7. — (AP)—The German high command claimed today German losses were moderate compared with the "extraordinarily high" losses of the Red army in the battle of Smolensk.

It reiterated its claim that the fierce struggle 200 miles west of Moscow has "ended victoriously" for Hitler's armies.

On the Smolensk front alone, the communique claimed, 310,000 Russians fell prisoner and 3,205 tanks and 3,120 artillery pieces were captured. It said the Russians lost 1,098 planes in the battle and an "unsurveyable amount of other war materials."

It then gave in detail the progress of German forces from the time spearheads shot out from the twin battlefields of Bialystok and Minsk to what the high command claims now to be total success in the battle of Smolensk.

This was the follow-up report in which the high command yesterday promised to tell point by point how Germany's soldiers pierced the Stalin line and drove a salient deep toward Moscow.

Royal Air Force Pilot Captures Italian E-Boat

LONDON, Aug. 7. — (CP) — The air ministry news service told Wednesday how a Royal Air Force pilot captured an Italian E-boat after he had pancaked on the sea.

In the first attack on the E-boat, which was approaching Malta harbor, the service said, the Hurricane was damaged, but the pilot got in a machine-gun burst which killed or wounded the entire E-boat crew.

Descending to the sea, the pilot climbed out of his machine, swam to the E-boat and brought his capture into harbor.

Steady Supply Of British For East

SINGAPORE, Aug. 7. — (CP)— Formidable reinforcements such as arrived in Singapore Tuesday "will continue to come as long as the threat to Malaya remains," Lieut.-Gen. A. E. Percival declared Wednesday.

Speaking to the press as commander of British land forces in Malaya, he said recent developments have "given a real uplift" to the imperial troops here who "want to get along with the war" after months of arduous preparation.

Lt.-Gen. Percival pointed out that with Japanese occupation of southern Indo-China, "we are now within reach of shore-based aircraft and the Japanese are in a position to deliver a surprise attack with much less warning than before."

The threat obviously will be increased if the Japanese go into Thailand, he added.

MALE POPULATION OF GREEK VILLAGE SLAUGHTERED

Entire Manhood Decimated By Nazi Machine-Gunners

German Officer Carries Out Personal Orders Of Hitler In Christomathos

In his article below, George Weller tells how a village's whole male population was decimated by Nazi machine - gunners arranged in a broad V formation. This is the third of a special group of five uncensored articles on Greece in Axis chains. —EDITOR.

Uncensored

ATHENS.—(CDN)—The harvest is good this year in Christomathos, one of the Cretan villages that fell under the German parachute attack, but it will rot in the fields. There are not enough hands to pick it.

When the parachutists came down with their tommy-guns blazing, the Cretans went out to meet them. They had few rifles, because the Metaxas government (of the late dictator Gen. John Metaxas) had disarmed them for their anti-royalist sympathies, but they had knives and sickles. Before they were overcome, they gave as good an account of themselves as the middle ages could in fighting against the blitzkrieg.

George Weller

The parachutists passed on, leaving five dead. On the fourth day after the island was in German hands a detachment of soldiers headed by an officer, with a captured Greek army surgeon as interpreter, came up from Canea to Christomathos. The Germans called the village population to assembly in the little square. Almost all were women and children.

"Where are your men?" asked the German officer.

"There are not many left."

"I need 25 men. I want men that are strong and healthy, none younger than 18 and none older than 42."

Only 16 men could be found within these age limits. They sidled curiously into the square, and were counted.

"Not enough," said the German officer. "I must have the full count of 25. I will extend the age limit from 16 to 55."

Twenty-three were found, and by including one boy of 15 and one old man the quota was eventually rounded up in about an hour. In their farmers' working jackets and sag-seated Cretan trousers the peasants were guided into the square. The German soldiers drew up on each side, facing inward upon them in two lines of broad "V" formation. At a sudden signal from the officer, the machine guns began to speak. The entire manhood of the village was wiped out.

ALMOST FAINTED

The Greek doctor almost fainted. "What is the reason for this?" he asked.

"We are following orders," said the German officer, "I am ashamed that I must do a thing like this, but I must, because it is the personal order of the Fuehrer."

"What are his orders?"

"Where snipers instead of regular soldiers kill our men, we are ordered to execute an equal number of civilians in that place. But where our men's bodies bear traces of mutilation—not bullet wounds but knife thrusts or slashes—the fuehrer has ordered that we must exact five lives for the life of every German soldier."

The Greek doctor, turning pale, turned to go away.

"Wait, doctor," said the officer. "I have still another order. Before you leave you must bury the dead."

The doctor read their intentions in their eyes: They took him for a traitor. He fled the island and is now hiding in Athens.

Two Canadian Air Force Men Killed In Plane Crash

MONCTON, N.B., Aug. 7.—(CP)—Two men were killed instantly when their Royal Canadian Air Force Harvard training plane crashed near the department of transport emergency landing field at Havelock, 30 miles from here, Wednesday. Officials of the school identified the victims as F/O. Ernest E. Creed of Riverside, Ont., an instructor, and LAC. Kenneth Payne Bisett of Campbellton, N.B., a student flier.

An R.C.A.F. ambulance brought the bodies here last night.

PLANT INTACT

MOSCOW, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Soviet information bureau invited foreign correspondents Tuesday to a tour of the Stalin automobile plant in Moscow today. German reports have pictured it as wrecked by bombing, but it was said here to be working normally.

—V—

"We have orders to visit several other villages, and you must go with us."

"You can kill me if you like," said the doctor, "but I cannot take any more part in this."

ALLOWED TO GO

The Germans allowed him to go. But other peasants who came to help bury the bodies of the villagers of Christomathos after the Germans had left, tapped the doctor on the shoulder.

"We have some cases up in the mountains that need your care," they said guilelessly. "Come with us."

But the doctor read their intentions in their eyes: They took him for a traitor. He fled the island and is now hiding in Athens.

Thailand Is Expected To Resist Japs

pincer movement with which the Germans planned to take Suez and the Caucasian oil fields of Russia.

SYRIA "FINAL BLOW"

Other brakes were the fierce resistance of Yugoslavia and Greece which cost the Germans "time and heavy casualties," and Crete which used up such German forces as air troops which would have been vital for attacks on Syria and Iraq.

The British and Free French invasion of the French mandate of Syria was "the final blow to the whole German Middle Eastern plan."

The remaining Italian troops in East Africa, specifically Ethiopia, are ready for the taking. There are pockets of resistance at Gondar (3,000 European and 6,000 natives) and at Jolbelli (3,000 Europeans and 1,000 natives) but these are expected to be speedily mopped up, solidifying the East African section of the Middle East lines.

European Russia

Halted at Smolensk, facing Moscow, the Germans are turning southeast from Bel Tserkov, in the Ukraine, in a push toward the Caucasus. There has been no great change in the situation in the last 24 hours. It is increasingly clear that on all other fronts the third great German offensive has been held and that progress in the Ukraine is "very slow."

Far East

The Russian army in Siberia is a "very strong, well equipped and highly trained" organization of about 1,000,000 men. In past frontier clashes with the Japanese "this army has proved its superiority in equipment, training and leadership." The Siberian forces are organized as troops of the Trans-Baikal military district, the first Red Banner army in the maritime provinces around Vladivostok and the second Red Banner army on the Manchukuo and Amur river frontiers.

The Japanese army in Manchukuo numbers a quarter million and has been steadily reinforced for the past two weeks. Strong defensive positions have been prepared in Manchukuo and it also is reported that the Japanese are massing what may be a "striking force" in the area between Harbin and the northern border of Korea.

JAPS "STUCK" IN CHINA

In China the Japanese army "apparently is stuck in the mud of immense military, political and economic problems." Although it is in no danger of being defeated in the field, a great part of Japan's military strength is tied up in China.

In Southern French Indo-China up to 50,000 Japanese troops have been landed at Camranh Bay and Saigon and in French Indo-China eight airdromes have been occupied by the Japanese air force. Japanese planes at Sokirang airdrome are 700 miles from Singapore while others based at Siemreap are less than 250 miles from Bangkok, capital of Thailand.

Singapore is "considerably stronger" than it was at the outbreak of the war, with an air force "superior in quality" to anything Japan could muster. Singapore is "More than a stronghold and if the Japanese were to attack, their resources would be taxed to the utmost."

Interpreting War News

German broadcasts say? And why, with complete and crushing victory all but in his grasp, did Hitler find it necessary just now to feed his people nerve tonic in such liberal doses?

BARRAGE OF CLAIMS

The barrage of claims thundered from Hitler's headquarters discloses only one significant development to support promises of ultimate German triumph. That is in the Leningrad zone, the least important in a strategic sense of the three main fronts.

The German official version reports a break-through northward between Lake Peipus and Lake Ilmen to a point "close to Narva". Narva is the junction point where the Tallin-Leningrad and the Pskov-Narva railroads meet. If it fell, all Russian forces still in Estonia and north and west of Lake Peipus will be caught in a trap.

The Hitler resume of the situation on the Kiev front was definitely enlightening. It confirmed a growing impression that an attempted sweep southward to destroy Red armies holding the Ukraine flank to the Black Sea was in progress rather than a Nazi frontal assault on Kiev.

ENCIRCLEMENT BATTLE

"With this break-through deep beyond the Stalin line (to Bel Tserkov)," the Hitler bulletin said, "it became possible to turn southward in a broad front between the Dniester and Dnieper rivers, cut off the enemy's retreat and begin an encirclement battle which presently is raging at full fury."

Successful German advance southward from Bel Tserkov would force Russian evacuation of all the southwestern Ukraine at least to the Bug river and possibly to the Dnieper. That is the gravest threat discernible in the latest grist of war news.

Tank Assault On Smolensk Is Wiped Out

sure on the Russian lines in that area, had been relieved—at least temporarily.

The bulletin declared the Red army was engaged in fierce combat all last night on the Estonian front, where the Germans have been trying to push northward toward Leningrad along the west shore of Lake Peipus.

NO HINT OF CHANGE

References to continued fighting in the Smolensk area and in the vicinity of Bel Tserkov, south of the Ukrainian capital of Kiev, gave no hint of any change in the situation in those vital sectors.

Reuters news agency reported today from Moscow that the Soviet high command "is confident that the Germans will reach neither Kiev nor Leningrad, let alone Moscow itself," said a London broadcast heard by Columbia Broadcasting system.)

The battle of the Karelian isthmus, first reported in the early morning communique, told of fighting in the vicinity of Kakisalmi, 75 miles from Leningrad.

The communique indicated the German and Finnish forces on the Karelian Isthmus were attempting to advance along the south shore of Lake Ladoga against stiff Russian resistance.

14TH MOSCOW RAID

The Nazi air force struck at Moscow last night for the 14th time at night since the war started, but the Russians said the raid—as those which preceded it—had been unsuccessful.

They acknowledged there had been civilian casualties but said there had been no damage to military targets and reported six of the raiders were downed. One Russian plane was lost. Only a few bombers reached the city, an announcement said.

Contradicting Nazi claims that most of the Soviet air force has been knocked out, the Russians said their planes delivered heavy blows yesterday at Nazi ground forces. Fourteen Nazi planes were destroyed during the day against Soviet losses of seven planes.

R.A.F. Batters Cities In Reich In Heavy Raids

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP)—The Royal Air Force reported today successful raids on industrial centres of western Germany and shipping off the Netherlands coast.

From the wide-ranging operations yesterday and last night 10 planes were lost.

It was indicated the assault was renewed on Northern France today.

As on Tuesday night, last night's attacks were centred on Frankfurt, Mannheim and KKarlsruhe in a continuation of the methodical pounding of German targets, and a communique reported "Huge fires were started and a considerable weight of bombs were dropped on each city." These raids cost eight planes.

HIT CONVOYED SHIP

The air ministry said that Blenheim bombers "searching for enemy shipping in daylight yesterday" attacked a destroyer-protected convoy off The Netherlands coast and "after the attack one ship was seen to be down by the stern with smoke pouring from it."

During the night an airdrome in Germans-held Norway was attacked and "an enemy vessel" torpedoed off the Norwegian coast by a British plane.

Six German planes were destroyed in the last 24 hours, five fighters by R.A.F. fighters in a series of engagements and a sixth fighter by a British bomber which it attacked over Germany last night.

In other attacks last night, hangars of an enemy airdrome in Northern France were set afire and bombs dropped on runways. Docks at Calais were blasted.

British day raiders, carrying out the round-the-clock schedule of air assaults, made a big sweep over the Channel and northern France today. Several waves of planes crossed toward Calais, Dunkerque and Ostend.

Another pair of Nazi planes was destroyed in light German attacks over east and southeast England during the night, the ministries of air and home security reported. A few persons were injured and slight damage was done at a few points.

A lone Nazi plane attacked some northeast coast towns after daylight today, spraying machine-gun bullets from a low altitude. It was chased by British fighters.

SECOND NIGHT IN ROW

It was the second successive night of British attacks on targets in the cities of Frankfurt, Mannheim and Karlsruhe.

In the raid Tuesday night the British bombers were whirled along by a gale that made them as fast as fighters.

Last night the Nazi-occupied French ports of Calais and Boulogne were attacked.

In Tuesday's daylight sorties an airdrome near Cherbourg, two tankers off the French coast, a motor torpedo boat and a coastal radio station were among the targets. Approximately a dozen Nazi planes on the ground of an airdrome were attacked with machine-gun and cannon fire and a Nazi fighter that rose to the challenge was shot down. Two escorting Nazi fighters were downed later when the R.A.F. attacked Nazi tankers, leaving smoke arising from one of the ships.

GREAT EXPLOSION

In Tuesday night raids on the German cities, fires were left raging and the attack on Mannheim was particularly severe. Here, one explosion was so effective it lighted up clouds at 8,000 feet. At Ludwigshafen, across the river, bombs smashed a large chemical factory and another great explosion occurred. Flames leaped hundreds of feet into the air.

At Karlsruhe a large factory was destroyed and fires roared in railway yards and industrial areas as the bombers headed for home. Another large explosion appeared to be from a burning ammunition dump.

British Losses In Greece, Crete Put At 25,680

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP)—War Secretary David Margesson told the House of Commons today, in a written reply to a question, that British and Imperial forces left behind a total of 25,680 prisoners and dead in the evacuations of Greece and Crete.

This included Australian and New Zealand forces as well as those from the United Kingdom.

The war secretary said the latest information showed that of the total British strength in Greece at the beginning of the German attack, 57,739 officers and men, 44,865 were evacuated. When the Germans attacked Crete the British strength as 27,550 and of those 14,580 were taken safely away.

Full details are not yet available but present information was said to show that the following was the total strength in Greece at the start of the German attack:

	Original Strength	Evacuated
British	24,100	16,442
Australian	17,125	14,137
New Zealand	16,532	14,286

The figures for Crete:

	Original Strength	Evacuated
British	14,000	7,130
Australian	6,450	2,890
New Zealand	7,100	4,560

The Crete totals at the start of the fighting included men evacuated from Greece but not re-evacuated to Egypt before the Crete operations. It is not possible to say how many of the missing are prisoners of war.

Gas Sale Order Must Apply To U.S. Tourists

TORONTO, Aug. 7—(CP)—G. R. Cottrelle, federal oil controller, said in a statement issued here Wednesday night that United States credit cards will continue to be honored, but restrictions on hours or sale of gasoline "must apply to United States visitors as well as to Canadians."

Text of his statement:

It is most unfortunate that through unauthorized sources misleading reports have appeared in the press regarding restrictions on the use of gasoline in Canada.

Canada is at war. Our reduced supply of petroleum products must be first devoted to the needs of our armed services, the army, the air force and the navy, and to the requirements of our war industries.

We have made an appeal to Canadians to cut down the non-essential use of gasoline by 50 per cent and to emphasize this the hours of sale have been fixed at from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. on weekdays and no sale from 7 p.m. Saturday until 7 a.m. Monday.

We believe that citizens of the United States who are welcomed as visitors to Canada, will readily accept these restrictions.

While Canadian credit cards have been discontinued United States credit cards will continue to be honored, but restriction on hours of sale must apply to United States visitors as well as to Canadians.

Lord Bennett Performs First Official Duty

By HAROLD FAIR

LONDON, Aug. 7—(CP)—Viscount Bennett performed his first official duty since entering the House of Lords when he sat on a three-man Royal Commission today to signify royal assent to a number of acts.

From the ministry of supply, where he is helping Lord Beaverbrook, the former Canadian Prime Minister went to the House of Lords to sit with Viscount Simon, Lord Chancellor, and Lord Daryington on a red leather bench for the picturesque ceremony before the Lords adjourned.

Resplendent in scarlet and gold robes and black cocked hats, Lords Bennett and Daryington were on either side of Lord Simon who, as Lord Chancellor—the only one of the three who talked—told the Yeoman Usher of the Black Rod to summon the commons.

Cries of "Hats off strangers" resounded along the corridors as the usher went and returned with the members of the lower house.

ASSENT IS GIVEN

Bowing three times to the commissioners and receiving an acknowledging raise of the cocked hats, the commoners standing under the gallery heard Lord Simon say that the King, "not thinking it fit to be present personally, had caused the commission to be issued. A white-wigged clerk read from crackling parchment the document containing the commission.

After Lord Simon informed the peers and commoners that royal assent had been given, the clerk read the names of each act while another clerk on the opposite side of the table addressed to the commons "Le Roi le veult"—the ancient French expression signifying the the King's will—and bowed to the commissioners.

4-Day Strike At Steel Plant Ends

HAMILTON, Aug. 7—(CP)—The dispute which sent an estimated 1,800 employees of the local National Steel Car Corporation plant on a four-day strike July 28 ended Wednesday with the announcement that all differences between employees and the company had been settled.

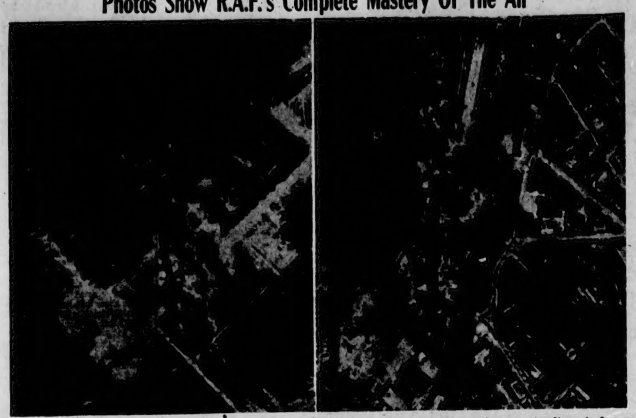

M. S. Campbell, chief conciliation officer of the federal department of labor, issued a brief statement following conclusion of a two-day conference of government and union officials. He said "a mutually acceptable understanding" has been reached and "the existing dispute is thereby terminated."

Campbell said there were no details of the discussions to be given to the public other than that all disagreements had been settled and that no further trouble was to be expected at the plant where two strikes had occurred in recent months.

The strike which began July 28 arose from refusal of the federal government to negotiate a contract with the union.

A strike at the plant April 27 began when the company refused a union request to reinstate a dismissed employee. George Tanner.

Photos Show R.A.F.'s Complete Mastery Of The Air

Britain has been master of the air over England since last fall and has been gradually adding new territory to her supremacy since that time. In recent weeks, using hundreds of planes daily, the R.A.F. has become undisputed master of the air over Northern France, Holland and Belgium. Above photos show the results of two raids carried out in broad daylight on important military objectives. At the left, a stick of bombs bursts on the new hangars on the airdrome at Desres, near Boulogne. At the right, the bombs burst on the Hazebrouck yard, an important railway junction in Northern France.

Closing Of U.S. Hog Mart Lowers Off-Grade Prices

CALGARY, Aug. 7—(CP)—The Alberta Federation of Agriculture in a prepared statement issued Wednesday said closing of the United States market for Alberta hogs has resulted in a drastic decline in prices paid in the province for heavy sows and other off-grade hogs.

The statement said the price of heavy sows is reported at some points to have fallen from $6.50 per hundredweight to less than $3.75 per hundred weight.

This class of pig, according to the statement, has no place in the British export market, whereas there is a demand for this quality of animal in the United States.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 7—(CP)—John T. Boyd, Winnipeg, was elected Supreme Grand Master of the Sovereign Great Priory of the Knights Templar of Canada here Wednesday at the 58th annual assembly which was attended by members from many parts of Canada and the United States.

The following grand council was elected: B. S. Bailey, Winnipeg; John Marr, Toronto; J. H. Ewdt, Hamilton; F. B. Reilly, Regina and C. H. Mindhin, Calgary.

Indian Chiefs Seek Voice In Nation's Life

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask., Aug. 7—(CP)—Canadian Indians have progressed sufficiently to have a voice in their own government, said Chief Joe Dreaver, of Mistawasis, Sask., during an address here Wednesday to a gathering of Indian councillors and chiefs.

"We are patriotic and proud of it," said Chief Dreaver, adding that the time has passed when Indians should be treated as minors.

"Nearly every man under 40 years of age on Mistawasis reserve has offered his services to the forces. Nine are already serving overseas.

"The same is true of Muskeg reserve and many other reserves."

Chief Swimmer, of Sweetgrass, Sask., head chief of the Battle River Crees, maintained that only by revision of the Indian act, along careful lines and in consultation with the Indians, could some of the dangers inherent in the present form of Indian administration be removed.

He said that to suggest that the Indian act gives almost dictatorial powers to the Indian agents "is not to suggest that all Indian agents use their powers unfairly.

"What we do suggest is that the power is there to use unfairly, and that this danger should be removed. We want to hold on to our treaty rights. Laws, however, passed to protect the Indians can and have been used, to retard our progress."

U.S. Government Wins Senate Vote

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—(AP)—The administration scored a victory of unexpectedly overwhelming proportions in the United States senate Wednesday with defeat by rejection of a proposal that any extension of the service period of draftees, National Guardsmen, reservists and army enlisted men be limited to twelve months.

The result was that all factions predicted the approval today of an 18-month limitation offered as a compromise by the military committee, and backed by Senator Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, the Democratic floor leader.

The vote against the 12-month restriction, 50 to 21, came as a surprise to administration leaders. They had foreseen a much closer outcome and, in fact, at times were actually uncertain of winning.

The reason for the size of the vote was that Senators Burton Wheeler (Dem., Mont.), Bennett Champ Clark (Dem., Mo.), Robert La Follette (Prog., Wis.), and many others who have consistently opposed the administration on questions of foreign policy and the draft, sprang a surprise by voting against the 12-month limitation.

BANFF SPRINGS HOTEL, Aug. 7—Ten American dry point etchings by the noted Chicago artist, R. H. Palenske, will be included in the Duke of Kent's luggage when His Royal Highness returns to Britain after his present Canadian tour.

The Duke, holidaying in the mountains, met Palenske by the former's request in the Banff Springs Hotel Wednesday after having seen some of the Chicagoan's work.

Selection of the subjects which the Duke acquired showed his leaning for open action pictures. Mr. Palenske said afterwards. They included a wide range of locale.

Stars Foretell Impending Doom Of Herr Hitler

CLEVELAND, Aug. 7—(CP)—For a man who has consistently patronized astrologers, Adolf Hitler is getting few breaks from the students of the stars.

Leaders of the American Federation of Scientific Astrologers which opened its annual convention here Wednesday generally were agreed his star is setting.

"Hitler's move on Russia was a great mistake," declared Louis de Wohl, Hungarian astro-philosopher and author attending the meeting.

The German high command decided May 11 to attack Russia—the same date Rudolph Hess landed in Scotland, de Wohl asserted.

"This is significant," de Wohl said, "because Dr. H. Spencer-Jones, British astronomer, scoffingly remarked in 1938 that if there were anything to astrology, its students should be able to predict important events for May 11, 1941.

"Hitler is on the down grade. The turning point came when Germany marched into Czechoslovakia in March, 1939. We can't predict a date for his defeat, but if the United States enters the war before next spring, he is doomed."

"President Roosevelt's horoscope is perfectly beautiful," he added. "He towers above all others. A Yogi once told me a man born on the date Hitler came into power would cause his downfall. Hitler rose to power on Jan. 30 and that is Roosevelt's birth date.

Grooms Threaten Tie Up Race Meet

HAMILTON, Aug. 7—(CP)—A petition signed by 90 grooms at the Hamilton race track threatening strike action before the first race today unless the jockey club accedes to demands of a $5 fee for leading a winner to the paddock, was presented to J. J. Conway, president of the Hamilton Jockey Club, Wednesday.

A second petition, signed by three grooms whose signatures were not on the first petition, asked that the matter be dealt with at the next meeting of the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association.

The strike threat looms as the Hamilton Jockey Club goes into its last three days of racing.

Arvida Srike Correspondence Now Released

ARVIDA, Que., Aug. 7—(CP)—In an exchange of correspondence between Munitions Minister Howe and Antonio Talbot, M.L.A., the minister stated that the aluminium workers of Arvida in their recent strike disregarded the ordinary procedure for conciliation differences, while Mr. Talbot replied that the minister had acted contrary to the fundamental principles of fair play.

The correspondence was made public yesterday by Mr. Talbot. Union Nationale member of the Quebec legislature for Chicoutimi, and following his message to Mr. Howe of July 30 in which he characterised as "false and unjust" the comments made by Mr. Howe concerning the five-day strike in the plant of the Aluminium Company of Canada. In these comments, on July 29, the minister termed the shutdown "a suspected case of enemy sabotage."

CLAIMS PREJUDICE

In the correspondence, Mr. Talbot said Mr. Howe had made his statements without hearing the two interested parties and that the minister, "one of the judges" in the application of war-time regulations, had adopted "an attitude of prejudice by inexact and one-sided declarations."

"I ask you again," Mr. Talbot wrote, "to do justice to all, but particularly to the brave working population which you insulted."

Mr. Howe, in his letter, after referring to the machinery for settling disputes, said:

"The employees, disregarding the ordinary mechanism of the regulations, took possession of the property of the company, which they occupied for nearly three days. During this time the operations of the company were completely immobilized and Great Britain was deprived of her most important war material. In the light of those facts I am rather surprised that you pretend that I have falsely represented that situation at Arvida."

Regarded As Nothing But Lame Attempt To Avoid Consequences

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CDN)—The British government remains entirely unimpressed by the Vichy spokesman's promise, made the other day, that the French government henceforth will not grant military facilities to any outside power in any part of the French empire.

This promise is regarded as nothing but a lame and belated attempt to avoid serious consequences for the recent sell-out to Japan in Indo-China.

"This is by no means the first time," the British spokesman stated today, "that Vichy has expressed the determination to resist encroachment on the integrity of its territories."

He also took strenuous exception to the Vichy spokesman's statement that the recent British occupation of Syria had constituted an act of "plain aggression."

ALREADY REFUTED

This statement, it was pointed out, had already been refuted in advance by Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles last Saturday when he recalled that Vichy had openly connived in allowing the Germans and Italians to use Syrian territory for operations against the British and that this was "plain encroachment on territory under French control."

It is not known here what demands Germany has recently made on Vichy or what Vichy's reply has been. The British believe that Vichy itself is not capable, either morally or physically, of resisting any real pressure from the Germans and that it is useless to attempt to pay further tribute in the hope that it may do so.

Board May Halt House-To-House Bread Delivery

By R. K. CARNEGIE

OTTAWA, Aug. 7—(CP) In its effort to prevent increases in the price of bread to consumers the Wartime Prices and Trade Board may halt house-to-house delivery of bread in Canada.

One reaction to the board's order Tuesday night stopping the sale of sliced loaves, special delivery of bread to private customers and use of multi-colored or double wrappers, effective August 11, was the query "why don't you stop house-to-house delivery altogether?" it was said at the board's office Monday.

BEING CONSIDERED

The board's reply was that it is being considered and such a step may have to be taken to keep bread prices down.

Bread is one of the most important items in the cost-of-living index. Accordingly the board said it was realized any stepping up in bread prices would be a serious setback in the fight to keep down the cost of living.

At present retail prices for a 1½ pound loaf run eight, nine and 10 cents with certain chain stores selling bread at 7½ cents over the counter. With prices of materials used in bread production and labor costs tending to increase there has been considerable complaint from certain firms that they could not make both ends meet at these prices.

Board officials said these firms had been told to study means of reducing costs.

SAVING TO BAKERS

By stopping the slicing of bread and special private delivery by bakers, there will be a considerable saving to bakers, the board held.

It was said the board may yet call on bakers to use a less expensive paper than that in which bread is now being wrapped, but the problem of stopping house-to-house delivery is a big one. Officials agreed there was much labor wasted in bread rigs of rival bakeries parading the streets call-from house to house delivering bread.

Most households are served daily by their grocers and the board holds there is no particular reason why bread should not be bought at the stores as is the case with meat and other commodities in daily use.

SELLING COST HIGH

In 1931 inquiry into the bread industry by F. A. McGregor of the labor department, brought out that the selling cost of bread was almost as much as cost of the flour that went into it. A considerable part of the selling cost was for house-to-house delivery.

The board said it had hesitated to prohibit house-to-house deliveries so far, largely because of the heavy investments of the bakeries in equipment for this purpose and the many men employed who would have to seek other jobs. With the pressure continuing for higher bread prices and the feeling that in wartime all unnecessary service should be dispensed with, the board will continue its meetings with the bakers and seek some step which would avoid hardships on anyone and yet cut out the waste.

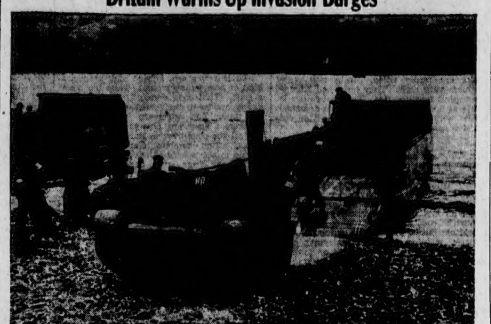

Milk delivery comes in another category, officials said, because of the need to keep the milk cool. All groceries would not be equipped to provide operation if the milk rigs went off the streets and left the job of retailing milk entirely to them.

Sea Casualties

LONDON, Aug. 7. — (CP)—The ministry of war transport announced Wednesday night the deaths of 152 members of the merchant navy and fishing fleet.

Britain Warms Up Invasion Barges

As Russia called on her ally to strike at Germany in the west, Britain staged a demonstration of her invasion forces for Prime Minister Churchill. Here Bren gun carriers roll from one of the much-touted invasion barges that did such a good job in the "practice invasion" of the German-held Lofoten Islands off the coast of Norway.

Prince George Leaves By Air For B.C. Coast

BANFF, Aug. 7—(CP)—Invigorated by two action-filled days of holiday in this Rocky Mountain resort, the Duke of Kent left here early today for Calgary to continue by air his inspection tour of establishments of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

The Duke arrived here Monday night and in the short time since then has climbed two mountains, ridden many miles on horseback, driven himself around the park in an automobile and seen most of the sights.

STURDY MOUNTAINEER

Yesterday he and his aide, Inspector H. J. Evans of Scotland Yard, clipped 20 minutes off the generally-recognized record for climbing Mt. Rundle. The pair negotiated the tricky and, in many spots, dangerous route to the 9,665-foot peak and back in six and a half hours.

Herb Ashley, veteran park warden who followed an hour behind them, described their feat as "daring and strength testing."

Good mountaineering knowledge is generally considered a prerequisite for the climb which Prince George and Evans made over the orthodox route up a narrow, zigzagging bush trail to timber line, then across rock and shale to the summit. They descended straight down a deep ravine which cuts a gash in the mountain.

TAKES BRIDLE RIDE

Previously, the Duke had made the comparatively easy ascent of Sulphur Mountain.

Shortly after his return last night the Duke went for a brisk 45-minute pony ride along Banff's "Rotten Row" to the end of the golf links. Later he paid a visit to the beaver dams west of the town, where Major P. J. Jennings, superintendent of the Banff National park, told him of the habits of the Canadian national animal.

Flier Killed

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 7—(AP)—PO. William B. Driver, 22, of Memphis, who has been flying a Hurricane fighter for the Royal Air Force, was killed Tuesday, cables received from the British air ministry revealed yesterday.

Instructors Are Entertained By R.A.F. Students

CALGARY, Aug. 7—(CP)—Thousands of miles from home, more than 50 young student pilots of No. 31 E.F.T.S., Royal Air Force, entertained their instructors at a banquet here Wednesday night. No official graduation is held from this school because the students will receive their wings on completion of their work at a service flying training school for which they will leave in a few days.

The students are members of the first class to complete their work at the school, which was opened about the middle of June.

The silver identification bracelet presented to the top-student in the class went to LAC. Noel Chilton Aubrey-Fletcher, son of Major Sir Henry Aubrey-Fletcher of Buckinghamshire, England. The clever student is an Eton product. His father and two brothers are serving with the army overseas.

British May Have Crossed Channel

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP)—The Daily Mail said today that a British landing party may have crossed the channel recently and that they might explain a great saucer-shaped crater which Dover observers say has appeared on the French-occupied coast.

The newspaper said the crater is approximately on the site of a German long-range gun emplacement.

The crater, in a low-lying section of the coast, east of Cap Gris Nez near the village of Sirouane, "almostly certainly was caused since last week-end," The Mail said.

"It is being linked with a big explosion heard early Monday morning when the channel was lit momentarily by a flash from the direction of France. There were none of the usual signs of a Royal Air Force attack at the time on that stretch of coast.

"Speculation about the cause of the explosion has produced three theories. The final credits the job to saboteurs and the second to the shelling of gun emplacements from the sea.

"The third theory is that a landing party may have crossed the channel."

Interjection Of Party Issues In U.S. Is Deplored

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Heads of three organizations supporting President Roosevelt's policy issued a joint statement Wednesday night deploring "the interjection of party issues" into discussions of international affairs. It was a reply to one issued Tuesday by Herbert Hoover, Alf Landon, Frank O. Lowden and other Republicans.

The reply was signed by Ernest Angell of New York, president of the Council for Democracy, Inc.; Bishop Henry W. Hobson of Cincinnati, chairman of Fight For Freedom, Inc., and Clark M. Eichelberger, acting chairman of the Committee to Defend America.

"Since the November election," they said, "leaders of all parties have united to support the national policy. The attempt to block the steadily growing national unity by the interjection of party issues is deplorable. It will please the Axis; but will have no effect upon the American people."

Changes Improve Australian Air Force Operations

SYDNEY, Aug. 7.—(CP)—Moving to ensure complete co-ordination within the Royal Australian Air Force and with other fighting arms of Australia's forces, air minister John McEwen today announced formation of new operational commands.

These changes, while not directly linked with current tension in the Pacific, will permit, Mr. McEwen pointed out, "smooth unhampered control in the operation of fighting, bombing and other combative units in the light of all likely strategic requirements."

A chief feature of the changes was the separation of operational from training activities.

British Airmen Tell Of Raking German Targets

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, Aug. 7—(CP)—The men who played leads in a British documentary film "Target For Tonight" staged a real-life repetition of their movie raid in an attack on Mannheim Tuesday night.

Three of the crew who, in the ministry of information picture, flew to their objective, "Preinhausen," in what they called an "F for Freddie" Wellington bomber were together again, dropping real bombs across the Mannheim docks and raking objectives on the way home with machine-gun fire.

VISIBILITY GOOD

"I have never had a trip like it before," said the pilot. "You could see hedges, roads, even in the smallest streams and railways lines.

"At one time we counted at least 12 flares in the air and you could see other bombers were at work farther away.

"We laid our bombs across the docks and then, coming home, gave the two gunners a night out.

"First, we had a go at the railway station in a fair-sized town just west of Mannheim. We went down to 500 feet to wake up the station master and give the gunners some exercise.

"There were three rows of trucks (railway cars) on the siding and some houses beside them. We raked them with fire from both turrets. The station had a glass roof and we made a mess of it, you could see the bullets smashing the glass.

"LIKELY LOOKING PLACE"

"As soon as we began to fire, the Germans started on us with pompoms so we thought we would get along to the next place.

"We found some goods yards and warehouses in another town and machine-gunned them from 300 feet.

"All the time we were in Germany the gunners kept calling to me whenever they saw a town, 'There's a likely-looking place,' and there must be a railway station there.'

"But we had to save our ammunition in case we met fighters, so after the second town we came quietly home."

M'Nab To Command Saskatoon School

WINNIPEG Aug. 7—(CP)—Wing Commander Ernest McNab, D.F.C., of Saskatoon, has been posted to command No. 4 service flying training school at Saskatoon and has arrived to take over his new command, Royal Canadian Air Force officials announced here Wednesday.

Wing Cmdr. McNab will take over the command officially today from group Capt. Duncan Bell Irving, who has been posted to No. 1 training command at Toronto. Until recently, Wing Cmdr. McNab commanded No. 118 fighter squadron at Rockliffe air station, Ottawa.

Son of Lieutenant-Governor A. P. McNab of Saskatchewan, the Saskatoon airman was the officer commanding the first fighter squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force which went into action over London in the battle of Britain last September. He shot down a German bomber in his first combat flight.

Before learning to fly and joining the Royal Air Force, Wing Cmdr. McNab was well-known in western football circles as a star outside-winger for the Saskatoon Saskwanis.

Wing Cmdr. McNab's valuable experience in the actual theatre of war resulted in his transfer to Canada last spring to aid in training airmen under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

Hopkins Says Stalin In Complete Command Of Present Situation

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CDN)—With the same self-assurance and cool determination which has typified him during the trying years of industrialization, party purges and preparation for the present war, Joseph V. Stalin is now looking on into the good year of 1942 when, with the full co-operation of the British and the Americans, he plans to give Adolf Hitler the coup de grace.

On his visit to Moscow, Lease-Lend Administrator Harry Hopkins found Stalin in complete command of the situation, highly informed regarding the strengths and weaknesses of Britain, Russia and the United States, and utterly confident that he could beat the Germans into pulp.

Sitting in an air raid shelter, which is reputedly 200 feet below the surface, the two men, one an American ultra-liberal, the other, one of the most complete dictators the modern world has known, talked over the whole situation in great detail and complete confidence. There was none of the usual wining and dining, and Hopkins was able to make the best of every minute of his time.

EXCLUSIVE

CONVERGING ATTACKS

Stalin has already given thought to next spring and summer, when he believes the combined armies of Russia and the Allies will be able to stage a series of converging attacks which will shatter the Reichswehr from within and without.

All the information and ideas that Hopkins collected in Moscow will be given to President Roosevelt upon Hopkins' arrival back in Washington in the near future.

Proposed Alaska Highway Subject Of Ottawa Talk

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—(CP)—Congressman Warren Magnuson of Washington state and Thomas Riggs, former governor of Alaska, conferred with high-ranking Canadian officials today on the long-mooted Alaska highway project.

Riggs said the discussions, which took place with Norman Robertson, under secretary of state for external affairs, and several of his aides, were "wholly informal."

"We came to Canada strictly to stress the defence angle of the highway," he said. "Alaska can only be reached by water and air and in the event of an emergency in the Pacific the need for land ingress will become acute."

He said he understood the highway will come up for consideration at the next meeting of the joint permanent defence board in September.

Bondholders Back Again

A committee representing the holders of Alberta bonds, headed by J. M. Macdonnell of Toronto, is in the city to discuss with Premier William Aberhart and his cabinet the bonded indebtedness of this province.

We trust this committee will have some constructive plan to place before the government.

Hitherto the only proposition they have submitted has been the impossible proposition that the people of Alberta restore to them the high rates of interest previously paid on Alberta bonds.

For some years, holders of Alberta bonds have received half the contract rate of interest, roughly 2½ per cent, which has been a good rate of interest under conditions prevailing in Alberta during the past ten years and a magnificent rate of interest under conditions prevailing in all Canada today.

This would be a highly illogical time to ask for more favorable consideration from the people of Alberta.

Canada is engaged in a life and death struggle with other free peoples of the world to defeat the tyranny and end the slavery imposed by Hitler.

Our finest young men are risking their lives at $1.30 a day and every single Canadian is being asked to make sacrifices and lower his standard of living to help Canada do its part in the world struggle for freedom.

In the midst of these circumstances, Alberta bondholders are receiving highly preferential treatment when they regularly get their 2½ per cent on the money that is working for them.

Unless Mr. Macdonnell and his committee have worthwhile proposals to offer, they will not suffer by having the whole question of bond interest postponed until after the war when the entire question of Canada's public debts will inevitably be under review.

Good Roads To Jasper

American and eastern tourists coming into Alberta report that they are given false information about the roads to Jasper.

Apparently with the idea of keeping tourist business in their own hands, certain agencies in the southern part of the province have been systematically endeavoring to divert traffic from Northern Alberta's national park.

A letter from one Massachusetts tourist, writing from Jasper Park, tells the whole story. Here is part of it:

"On reaching ——— I stopped at the official information bureau and asked the condition of the roads to Jasper. I was informed that the roads were in very bad condition and extremely dusty. The young man told me that large numbers of tourists had complained about the conditions and that they would not have made the trip had they known.

"To my surprise, I not only found two-thirds of the distance what I would call very good roads for this part of the country, but in the places where it was dry and dusty, I could drove at a medium speed, he experienced no dust at all.

"I consider the trip to Jasper one of the most beautiful and picturesque drives in the whole Rocky Mountain range. It is wonderful country and I wish more Eastern American tourists knew about it."

This deliberate campaign to divert travellers from Jasper Park in order to keep their business in the South is dishonest and mean.

Surely no native Albertan who appreciates the beauties of his province would take part in such a scurrilous program.

Another Army Day

The last Army Day turned out to be widely popular. There were crowds of visitors at training centres all across the Dominion. No doubt a good many of these were veterans of the former Great War, who called around to see how their successors live and are getting along. But many thousands were persons who knew little or nothing of army life, relatives who wanted to know how their "boys" were faring, and others, young and old, who wanted to get a close-up of the living quarters and camp routine.

The experiment was so satisfactory, to visitors and soldiers alike, that it is time for another Army Day. Canada's army is a part of the nation, not an institution apart from the nation. The more the public know about it the more they will be interested in it, and the happier will be the relations between soldiers and civilians.

The young chap who is in line to be called for training in due course will look forward to the experience with quite a different feeling as he gets to know, by personal observation, something of the conditions under which he will live and the work he will be required to do; and his parents will share the changed outlook with him. There would be even fewer draft-dodgers than there are if men summoned to train knew more about life in the training camps.

Those who read magazines and newspapers published in the United States will note the urgency with which military authorities there invite the public to visit the camps and learn how their army is being handled and built into an effective fighting force. That is in keeping with the spirit of democracy. Canada may well take the same means to cultivate the interest of the nation in the men who are learning how to protect it. Let us have regular Army Days.

Exhibition As Usual

Official confirmation of the report that the Edmonton Exhibition will be held next year as usual is good news for this entire community.

There was for awhile a short-sighted tendency to advocate the closing of this annual event for the duration of the war as a measure of economy.

More than likely this tendency was rather an impulse to mortify the flesh in the quaint puritanical notion that Providence is more inclined to look upon our cause favorably if we make ourselves dull and miserable than if we keep our chins up and laugh.

At any rate, the economy idea was a specious one and it is a good thing we got over it.

The closing of a western fair can never be regarded as an economical step so long as we remember the true purpose of a fair.

A western exhibition is held primarily for the purpose of giving a lift to the agricultural and livestock industries of the district and placing their products in the show-window of the province.

If it was good business to thus stimulate agriculture in peace time when agriculture is no more than a means to national prosperity, it is downright essential to stimulate agriculture in war-time when agriculture is a vital factor in national survival.

The decision to continue the Edmonton Exhibition is a wise and profitable one.

Those Few To Whom World Civilization Owes So Much

Royal Air Force a Reticent Lot and Completely Without Swank

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

LONDON (Via Press Wireless)—The Royal Air Force is not an army. It is an order, a knightly order, representing something new not only as a fighting force but as a social phenomenon. It is impossible to come into contact with groups of its men without believing that the R.A.F. will play a great role in the Britain that emerges from the war.

Dorothy Thompson

These young men saved England a year ago. How few they were who saved England is not yet realized by the many. Their names as individuals are hardly known. Their air war is without faces. Individual exploits have been as sensational as any performed by the Richthofens or the Guynemers or the Richtofens of the last war. But it is a breach of form in the R.A.F. to publicize any single personality. Congratulate a pilot on his personal exploits and he will stiffen immediately.

Voluntary Force

The R.A.F. is a voluntary force. He who openly considers himself as accepted finds a code imposed upon him by his comrades. There are R.A.F. manners. Reticence, poise and casualness in them. "Shooting a line" makes one an outcast.

In fighting stations, military forms and rigidities are kept at a minimum. The salute is casual, the air is spoken as a well-brought up youth might address an older man. Nicknames are as universal as at a boys' school. The intelligence officer at one station is always called "spy." The atmosphere of the fighting station is rather that of a young men's club. The spirit of the squadron is not the spirit of a company or a brigade but of a team. The men are rated among their comrades not only for their exploits in bringing down Germans but for their sobriety in protecting their aircraft, for leadership and for team work.

The playing fields of Eton are in the sky and this temperate mentality of Britain ride to hounds in the heavens. Whose particular gun brought down a particular plane is of less consequence than how each member of a squadron behaved in relation to the whole operation. This self-selected service of the few comes, interestingly enough, almost entirely from the middle classes. Their families are rarely titled, rarely rich, very seldom very poor. They have had advantages but few luxuries. The probability is that at home they live in a small detached villa with one or two servants. Nine out of ten come from such homes.

Not Too Fit

Although enormous emphasis is placed upon the discipline of tactics and the integrated teamwork of the whole operation, very little emphasis is placed upon bodily training in the rigid physical sense.

For instance, one of the greatest airmen in England told me: "A good airman must be constitutionally sound, completely healthy; but he must never be too fit. The sort of training that the infantryman gets, or the sort given to a boxer or football player, would spoil an airman."

The fighter airman is employed in short swift engagements, requiring terrific concentration of nervous energy, rather than prolonged endurance. Ever so slight an edge on the nerves seems to produce tension. Nerves are necessary to perfect his performance. The fighter of the air has the nerves of an acrobat not a soldier or mariner. It is all done with nerves, not muscle and among airmen there are highly artistic types.

Different Types

There are three commands in the R.A.F. Each produces a different type of airman. The fighters are the aristocrats. The bomber wiry breed of finely-spun nerves. The bombers are physically thicker set, slower, more deliberate perhaps, a more responsible type. They are handling more power, more costly craft. Their skippers are responsible for more people's lives. The men of the coastal command are the fat boys of the R.A.F. In trying to find the reason, I concluded it was because they follow the usages of the navy and eat more, oftener. These are the men who conduct reconnaissance over the oceans, bomb enemy surface craft and submarines and act as convoy for those helping to bring food in food and the sinews of war for Britain's people.

Their wives are, I must add, a special kind of new young woman. They too have a code. That code demands that they be happy and keep their husbands happy all the time. The girls are great cocktail drinkers. They are always casual. It is against the code ever to show the slightest apprehension, ever to telephone the airdrome to see whether their husbands have come back from some dangerous operation. They must wait for his call. When possible they live near the squadron stations to be with their husbands at the earliest moment of their free time.

In the last war there was considerable freemasonry among the airmen of all nationalities. A mutual admiration that transcended the enmities of war. There is much less of that in this war in which the air force plays an infinitely greater role.

Most airmen with whom I talked despise the Nazis as an inferior enemy. They admire the strategy and tactics of the Luftwaffe but no individual pilots. They are a very unbeautiful lot themselves but they say as a quite simple statement of fact that the Nazis haven't got guts. They say they are too rigid. They are enormously effective whenever no chance or accident crosses their prescribed tactics but relatively helpless in an unforseen emergency. Some thoughtful ones advance reasons for this but that is another story.

He Says Give 'Em A Medal

Americans Will Do Anything For a Decoration, Declares U. S. Humorist

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK.—If the U.S. government wants a sure fire means of increasing interest and participation in the national defense program, all it has to do is to create a series of decorations and awards for those citizens whose contributions are outstanding.

The American is a sucker for a medal, a plaque, or a citation of any sort. Give him something he can hang on his chest or his bedroom wall, and he'll wade through molten lava in his house slippers for you.

Look around you, if you don't believe this. Look right on your own vest, for that matter, or in the little box reserved for personnal treasures, and you'll probably find a bit of bric-a-brac you earned for winning a spelling bee in 1913, or for being more cats than any other boy in your neighborhood during the summer of 1910.

Americans cling to awards like castaways to a raft. Bankers who are well on the way to their fourth million point with pride to the crossed paddles over the door in their den that they got twenty-five years ago for winning the canoe championship at Kamp Kill Kare. Many a dowager is no prouder of her pearls than she is of a medal she was given as a girl for being the best standing guard on the high school basketball team.

Useful Weakness

The government should capitalize on this weakness of Americans.

We would love it.

Consider Mr. Harold Ickes' current campaign for gasoline conservation. We will all enter into it sure, but not with the enthusiasm we would if whole-hearted participation meant a medal or two.

Why doesn't Mr. Ickes create the Order of the Lean Mixture, Third Class, for those citizens who adjust the carburetors of their cars so that they will operate on a third less gasoline? Or the Order of the Leaner Mixture, Second Class, for those who save a little more fuel? For those who strangled their carburetors so that their cars stalled every block or two for want of gasoline, there could be an order known as the Knights of the Sputter, First Class.

For the super patriots, those motorists who in their zeal to save fuel shot the works and took the carburetors out of their cars altogether, there would be the highest order of all. They would be given the title of Commanders of the Hitch Hike. They would be granted the right to wear royal purple bands on their thumbs, and be guaranteed one free half sole for their shoes a year by a grateful government.

Aluminum Drive

The drive for aluminum would derive tremendous impetus from a series of orders for unselfish housewives. As it is now there is no distinguishing between a woman who has given only a coffee strainer and one who has sacrificed a fireless cooker to the cause. This should be remedied, because women, while they are created free and equal, don't relish remaining that way.

No woman would step with one aluminum pan if she knew that, by giving two she would earn the right to wear the ante red, white and blue ribbon in her boudior cap that Mrs. Jones wore. Before she'd let Mrs. Jones have anything on her she'd go down and buy an aluminum pan to give the government.

To bring the aluminum contributions to a peak the government should create an order called, say, The Grand Dames of the Skillets and Double Boilers. Only these women who had cleaned out their kitchens of aluminum ware would be eligible for membership. There would be certain privileges that no woman could resist. The Order would have three or four distinguishing pins and clips; one, perhaps, for any woman who has worn the insignia a year. The clips and pins would be large, too. Women don't like organizations whose badges are too small size.

Lots of Officers

There would be an annual encampment of the Grand Dames of the Skillets and Double Boilers, of course. The girls like to go to annual meetings and vote against one another for high office. The organization would have lots of officers. Women are up to their ears in organizations which have so few officers the membership can't get into a good squabble concerning who isn't to be elected.

Even a medal cries brings its happiness. Never before in this country's history have there been so many organizations that men and women could join. Never before has it been possible to wear as many buttons, badges, ribbons and clips. As a nation we love ceremony. Opening things rates a close second to baseball as the national sport.

As I write this, the other half of my family is away joining an anti-Japanese silk stocking society. She already has so many badges that she looks as if she were wearing a suit of armor when she puts them all on, but she loves it.

There's no denying that this country will give until it hurts—if it gets a badge to prove it.

"Standing with England, in whatever way we can beholding this thing that blasts and kills and breeds to blast and kill and destroy, let us say, 'It is against this that we are fighting'."—Professor Bennett Weaver, Ann Arbor University, Michigan.

Why Russia Fights Back

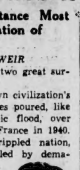

Gallant Soviet Resistance Most Scathing Repudiation of Nazism

By HAROLD L. WEIR

This war has presented two great surprises.

The first was thrust down civilization's throat when the Nazi hordes poured, like an irresistible and miasmic flood, over Holland and Belgium and France in 1940.

When this allegedly crippled nation, bankrupt, hysterical and led by demagogues, rose up as the greatest force of evil in the world's history, we thought our cup of astonishment was filled to the brim.

Harold L. Weir

We had two hellish illusions about Germany, both of which were fed by a certain type of statesman that flourished in Britain during the peace-at-any-price era.

The first illusion was that the Germany was too badly off economically to menace the world.

The second illusion was that the kindly, generous and art-loving German people would never permit themselves to be stampeded by a screaming little mystic with evil eyes into an assault against civilization.

The Germans were too level-headed, too tolerant, too humane, to allow themselves to be used as an instrument to enslave mankind.

Behind them were those cruel Prussian junkers and the vicious officer class. But these were in the minority. The great bulk of them, we thought, were gentle and kind. They were home-folks.

It is one of the bitterest paradoxes in history that out of the gentlest race on earth should come a movement to destroy civilization and out of what we considered the most noble race on earth should come a valiant movement to preserve it.

Second Surprise

The second and greatest surprise of the war was the powerful resistance made and still being made by the people of Soviet Russia.

Just two months ago we all held a very unflattering opinion of the Bolsheviists of Russia.

The peasants of that country were ignorant and illiterate folk groaning under a political tyranny much worse than that of the Tsars.

The educated intellectuals were either impractical dreamers or downright scoundrels.

Russian machinery was poor stuff because the Russians had no mechanical genius.

Russian troops were of feeble morale because who would care to give his life for an abstraction like the Five Year Plan?

Josef Stalin was a cheap political trickster.

The Russian army was overrun with graft, as in the last war when high officers subtracted their commissions from Russian shells and sold them to the Germans.

The Russians were characteristically ineffective in their attempts to make a major campaign of offense and defense.

These were some of the things we were saying about the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics just two months ago.

The Russians, we said, were venal and inisincere.

Now we are moved, if venality and insincerity impel the Russian soldier, to wish to God some of our former allies had possessed those same admirable qualities.

Final Condemnation

Suppose, for the purposes of argument, we continue to accept our former evaluation of Soviet Russia.

Suppose, for the moment, we continue to think of Soviet Russia as a brutalized political jellyfish.

What a terrific indictment of Nazi Germany it is when the people of this country feel that even one of our most sinful pity would rather die in the field than accept Hitler's rule or his creed!

There can be a full old song about the adventures of a particularly disgusting cosspot who, in his cups, used to get into the most disastrous situations. One night he got beastly drunk and fell into a gutter beside a pig. And then, as the refrain went:

"The pig got up and slowly walked away."

If we want to cling to our former opinion of Soviet Russia, we can find a parallel to that old song in what is happening today in Hitler's new campaign.

Even the Russians, if we want to put it that way, will have nothing to do with the foul little man.

He is too strong, too beastly for their seasoned stomachs.

A New Russia

It is, of course, unjust, unreasonable and unutterably stupid to continue to hold our uninformed prejudice against the Russians.

We do not need to accept the principles of Bolshevism, particularly those disturbed principles professed by our native brand of Communists, to admit that something has given the Russians enough spiritual stimulus to weld them into a nation.

People do not fight for their country unless they love their country. They do not love their country unless their country has been reasonably good to them.

People do not die in defense of something in which they do not believe.

The Germans say a million Russian soldiers have been killed in the present campaign.

Well, then, there is the verdict of a million unloosed souls who thought that death was sweeter than life under the Nazis.

It may be noted that these men were fighting—so much for Bolshevism as against Nazism.

It may be significant enough to bear in mind, however, that they expressed their choice between the two by laying down their lives.

A Difference

Someone may say that the same argument applies to the Nazis, that if Bolshevism must be good because it inspires Russians to die for it and Democracy must be good because it inspires Britons to die for it, then Nazism must have good qualities because so many Germans have died to Hitler's great glory.

The thing does not follow at all.

Those things a man defends are usually different from those things he fights to get.

Eight Gallons

From The Montreal Gazette.

Any Canadian motorists chafing under the gasoline regulations ought to take a good look at the state of affairs in New Zealand. Each car-owning New Zealander is issued coupons entitling him to the purchase of eight imperial gallons of gasoline monthly, according to a prominent businessman from Auckland, N.Z., who is in Montreal.

This ruling, he said, has been in force for the past 18 months. During an exceptional month, the motorist may be allowed 10 gallons. Gasoling for commercial purposes is also controlled, and no one firm may use more than 30 gallons monthly.

No new cars have been offered for sale since the start of the war.

In order that there may be no wastage through overlapping of services, butchers and bakers and milkmen and the rest are allotted certain streets, and they must service these and these alone. The customers must take their wares and like it. Laundry is delivered only twice a week instead of six days a week as previously.

Businessmen jam into autos by sixes and sevens. "There is great rivalry," our informant continued, "to see who can go farthest on a gallon of gas by coasting down every possible grade.

"The tallest stories these days are not told about fish, but about miles per gallon." The coupons are good for 1, 2 or 4 gallons. If you want to go on a holiday, you have to save up your coupons for it because you can't go far on eight gallons, the monthly ration. Motorists often get together on this, he said. One will borrow the other's coupons for that month, thus having 16 gallons at his disposal. Next month the procedure is reversed.

The shortage of gasoline for Mr. Average Customer has led to a boom in coal-burning attachments which provide the necessary power with somewhat less efficiency. Four companies are now working full time producing such units. The car is started in the regular manner, then the gas is switched off and the coal burner takes over. Over 20 percent of New Zealand's cars are fitted with these attachments today and many more are being put into use daily. One load of coal will take a car roughly 300 miles, although there is some inconvenience shovelling out the ashes every hour.

Service stations no longer stay open after 7 o'clock at night, not because of any law, but because there is simply not enough business. By agreement the garages and service stations take turns keeping open all night for emergency calls. Penalties for the theft of gas have become much stiffer since rationing came into effect.

PONOKA, Aug. 7 — Farmer northwest of Ponoka, Ben Fink has what is believed to be one of the biggest fruit orchards in the northern part of the province, with 150 varieties of fruit trees, of which more than 100 are producing.

Mr. Fink started cultivating fruit trees six years ago, and now grows apples, crab apples, plums, grapes, raspberries and strawberries. He expected to produce 80 to 100 pounds of crab apples from one tree alone, in what is believed to be the largest single production in Alberta. His crab apples are of the Florence variety.

Bombers Carry Explosives On Atlantic Hops

LONDON, Aug. 7—(CP)—American bombers spanning the Atlantic from Newfoundland to "somewhere in England" are carrying big payloads—of high explosives — according to one United States passenger.

"I came over in a Consolidated Liberator," he related, "and we had 2½ tons of the stuff aboard.

"I don't know anything about it, because people don't go around buttonholing you with war secrets these days.

"But my impression was there was no need to have any training wheels aboard. As a matter of fact, they didn't bother. One hint was enough for me.

"HORRIBLY EFFECTIVE"

"We talked about the stuff a little on the way over, and I got a very good idea that it's terribly, horribly effective."

The American, a flier himself, gave a graphic description of what it is like to be flying across the ocean especially with a load of explosives under you. He was one of three "deadheads" (passengers) on the trip.

The three, he remarked, "felt a little tingly on the take-off," and had to cooke supper in the galley during a bit of super-explosives.

"Too damn much to look at," he said professionally. "Sky, clouds, stars, and trying to follow our course kept me awake. Besides, whenever one of the co-pilots came back for coffee, they would let me go forward.

"When we were getting in close, the pilots asked me to go to the rear gunner's turret and keep a lookout for planes. I didn't see anything; and then I began to think about landing with all those explosives.

"But there was nothing to it. She came in like a dream."

Aluminum Drive In Alberta Set For Sept. 12-13

OTTAWA, Aug. 7—(CP)—Salvage campaign headquarters appealed Wednesday night to housewives to help the Canadian Red Cross Society by contributing useless aluminum articles to a drive sponsored by the National Salvage Committee.

Aluminum collected will be sold to Canadian war equipment manufacturers and the proceeds will be used for Red Cross work among Canadian servicemen.

Campaign dates follow: Ontario and Quebec, Sept. 5-6; Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, Sept. 12-13; Maritime provinces and British Columbia, Sept. 19-20.

Collection points will be established in parks and school grounds of every town and city.

New 'Churchill' Tank Is Great Land Cruiser

By ROSS MUNRO

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 7—(CP)—A "Churchill" flanked ponderously from a grove of trees in the camp of the Canadian army tank brigade. It crunched to a stop beside another of these monster infantry tanks, being mass-produced in Britain now, and Maj. J. H. Perry of Whitby, Ont., said to us: "Okay, boys board 'em."

The King had ridden in one, Prime Minister Churchill had driven one, but certainly no war correspondent had ever gone for a spin in these tanks which until a few weeks ago were on Britain's secret list and which the ministry of supply modestly describes as "probably" the most powerful tanks in the world.

TRAVELS EASILY

I grabbed the muzzle of a gun sticking out in front and pulled myself up on "decks." It was quite a heave. After sticking along the huge treads to the turret, I dropped down into the commander's position and several army officers climbed in [illegible] Lemon.

"Put on the headphone and you can talk to one another when we're moving," said an officer.

The Churchill's motors drummed like a bomber warming up and the tank churned the earth as it started. Heaving up a slope it gathered speed and rumbled along smoothly. It seemed to manoeuvre as easily as lighter armored fighting vehicles.

Inside the tank we had plenty of room even to stand upright. Seats were padded and head protectors were conveniently placed so there would be no cracked skulls. There were small wheels for aiming the light Gun mechanism jutted into the centre of the turret space, but nothing looked very complicated. There were all sorts of special devices but they didn't clutter up the tank.

WELL PROTECTED

With the turret clamped down we looked through periscopes and could get a good sweep of the countryside. Then an officer changed places with me and I became the gunner. Eye pressed to the gun sight, I caught another Churchill as it cruised 500 yards away. I swung the turrent around with a twist of a lever on a dial and jockeyed the heavy gun into position with my shoulder.

It will take a large shell even to dint the heavy armored plating on these Churchills and Canadian troopers riding to battle in them will have more protection than anyone else in Canadian formations.

The driver took the tank up a steep bank and drove over the roughest ground in the camp, finally crashing down an embankment. The Churchill just rocked a little more than usual, plunged forward and straightened out. There are far worse bumps in small ships or in planes. Two of us were wearing glasses and we didn't even bother to take them off for the rough part of the ride.

Closed Sessions Again Protested

OTTAWA, Aug. 7—(CP)—Joseph H. Harris (Con. Toronto-Danforth) Wednesday renewed his protests against closed sessions of the special parliamentary committee on war expenditures Wednesday as a subcommittee under chairmanship of R. T. Graham (Lib. Swift Current) went into secret session to discuss methods of salvaging waste materials in the armed forces.

When the work of the committee was discussed in the House of Commons Mr. Harris urged that all sessions be held with open doors and several police would not sit at any closed meetings. When yesterday's meeting was closed to the press Mr. Harris left.

Harris is head of a firm which processed waste animal material, including bones and fat.

He said he is satisfied the committee is doing good work and expressed belief its investigations have resulted already in the saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Asked why the salvage discussion was in camera Graham said:

"We had invited a number of officers from different branches of the service and representatives of the treasury to give us the problem as they see it. Some of the information, because of war requirements, should not be made public but in addition, the committee felt that as it was a common problem to different branches there would be a freer discussion if it were off the record."

Nazis Must Change War Style Or Cut Industrial Oil Use

LONDON, Aug. 7—(AP)—A government oil expert declared today the Germans will be compelled to alter their blitzkrieg methods or cut their industrial consumption of oil unless they can capture Soviet Russia's Caucasus oil fields by early in 1942. He said the first signs of a real shortage in the German army, navy, air force and industry would appear in six months.

McKean Case To Be Considered By An Appeal Board

VANCOUVER, Aug. 7—(CP)—Fergus McKean, interned secretary of the Communist party of British Columbia, will appear before an appeal board Aug. 11 at Camp Petawawa, near Ottawa, to present his case.

John Stanton, Vancouver lawyer retained as McKean's counsel by the local Committee for Labor Justice, is en route east to see his client Aug. 7 by permission of the justice department.

Looking them Over

By JACK KELLY

TONIGHT down at Renfrew Park the Ponoka Stampeders and Edmonton Dodgers open their final, all-important series that will determine which clubs enter the playoff for the Central Alberta Baseball League championship.

The situation presents a number of possibilities, one of which is that the end of the regular schedule may see all three clubs tied with eight wins and eight losses each—the hottest finish seen in these parts for many a year.

Dodgers and Ponoka have three games left to play with each other, one of them being a replay of their 8-8 deadlock here. Should Ponoka win tonight and beat the Dodgers again on Sunday, Morgan and his men will be all washed up and the Stampeders will be in the league leadership again. This will necessitate them playing off the tie game they had with the Arrows in order to determine first and second places. Should the Arrows win this replay, then Ponoka will have to play its tied game with the Dodgers and if the Stamps win it they will be tied with the Arrows for the league lead.

On the other hand should the Dodgers win tonight and Sunday, then Ponoka could bring about a three-way tie by beating the Arrows and Dodgers in the replays of tied games.

There is no doubt about it, these three clubs are coming down the stretch in what promises to be a photo finish, a fitting climax to a season of exceptionally good baseball considering the handicap of war conditions. The remaining games should all be sizzlers.

E.A.C. Gridders Start Drills

COACH Ernie Sievers had his Edmonton Athletic Club football squad out for its first practice last night at Clarke Stadium in preparation for the coming City Junior League games. The boys went through limbering up drills and a general sorting out.

The Clubmen also took one on the chin last night when it was learned that Gordon Retallack, starry backfielder of the squad, is in the hospital with a knee injury. Bim Barker, who was absent from the city for the spring exhibition game, is back again and ready for battle.

The E.A.C. will drill again tonight at 6:45 p.m.

Roaming Around Sportdom

REGARDLESS of what reports you may have heard, the heart of the cricket world is still green. The two handpicked teams are playing at Lord's, world-famous oval on the Marylebone Cricket Club. One team is representative of the British Empire, the other is a selected team of Englishmen. A Canadian is playing on the Empire eleven—Lieut. Clarke "Sparky" Bell of Toronto. This will be Bell's second game at Lord's. He was a member of the team that Hon. R. C. Matthews took on tour to England in 1936 and played against the M.C.C. then.

Did you ever wonder just how a fellow got to be a golfer like Ben Hogan, a player who has finished in the money of his last 53 tourneys, finished in a tie for third in the U.S. Open and is generally conceded by his fellow shotmakers to be tops?

"There is no secret or magic way," says Ben. "It's just a matter of long hours of hard practice. After a fellow masters his practice shots he tunes them to competitive play. Often shots that click perfectly in practice go haywire in competition. That is because the player has cracked under the pressure. It's just practice, practice, practice and then compete, compete, compete."

Yesterday in London the gallant men in little sailing and power boats who braved the worst the Nazi blitzkrieg could offer in order to make possible the evacuation from Dunkerque were honored for their bravery by their American cousins. Frankie Kovacs, eccentric star of the tennis courts, was married to Virginia Wolfenden of San Francisco on July 14, he announced yesterday. Virginia is ranked seventh among U.S. women players.

Ottawa Rough Riders have headaches already. Will Trembley, starry end of the team, has been called for compulsory military service next week. President Sam Berger of the club takes a gloomy view of the job of fielding a team this season.

Army, Navy Pats Defeat Buffaloes To Tie Up Series

Army and Navy Pats defeated the Big Orange Buffaloes 10-5 at Kingsway Park on Wednesday night to even the count in the senior girls' softball playoffs for the North Alberta division title.

Final game of the best-of-three series is billed for Saturday night and will start at 7 o'clock.

Dora Wusky started for the Buffs, but was relieved in the third after four hits and four walks which along with a liberal helping of errors added up to seven runs. Eileen Rentoul yielded only three hits in the six innings she worked.

Beryl Westbrook was on the mound for the Pats and gave up a quintet of safe blows. She struck out three and issued a pair of walks.

Hits by Vickie Wynnyk and Mabel Geddes along with a trio of errors sent the Buffaloes off to a flying start in the first innings with three runs, but the Pats came back for a pair on two walks, two wild pitches and an error, plus a single by Dora Martin.

The Pats drew even in the second inning, Beryl Westbrook reaching first via the gift route, followed by an error in handling Edith Mills' grounder.

Claire Hollingsworth's team clinched the game in the third with four counters. Dora Martin and Jerry Martin tripled in left, later scoring on an error. Katie Martin singled and June Causgrove laced out a three-bagger and came home on Kay Heim's fly to the outfield.

The Pats got three more in the fourth on hits by Winnie Gallen and Bubbles Perrier along with a brace of errors.

In the fifth inning the Buffs got back two runs when Vickie Wynnyk made two bases on an error, scoring on Jean Barlon's triple. Jean reached home on another error.

Favored Bill Gallon Wins Rich Hambletonian Classic

GOSHEN, N.Y., Aug. 7—(AP)—Two comparative newcomers to big time trotting showed some 25,000 villagers and city folk Wednesday how to achieve success in the shortest possible time as Bill Gallon lived up to expectations and won the 16th Hambletonian at Good Time Park.

The brown son of Sandy Flash, coming back to take the final two heats after finishing far back in the first mile, gave trottings richest prize at the first asking to R. H. Johnston, Charlotte, N.C., cotton textile manufacturer, and his little weatherbeaten trainer-driver, Lee Smith from Dadeville, Ala. The victory, worth $20,365, boosted Gallon's earnings for two years to $35,000.

His Excellency, many times runner-up but never a winner, gave Bill Strang, Brooklyn warehouse and trucking man, hopes of realizing something on his investment of $6,100 by trotting off with the first mile in 2:07¼—the slowest time in the history of the "Cornstassel" Derby. Bill Gallon, off to a poor start, could do no better than sixth as Patrick Sullivan's lightly regarded Merwynna of Machias, Me. took runner-up honors after Sheppard's Lucky Hanover had been disqualified for fouling in the stretch.

DIFFERENT STORIES

The second and third heats, however, were different stories. The second mile Gallon outgamed His Excellency in a photo finish to win in 2:05½ and in the final test he pulled away to score by three lengths over the Brooklyn-owned speedster in 2:05.

His Excellency picked up second money of $7,465 and had the honor of forcing the classic into extra heats for the first time since 1934 when Lord Jim had to go four miles to win.

Thanks to Lucky Hanover's disqualification, Merwynna took third money of $4,443 although she could do no better than sixth in the second mile and seventh in the third.

Third in the first two miles and fourth in the last gave the fourth money to Fast Train, owned by Ebby Gerry, polo playing chairman of the New York State Racing Commission.

LONGEST PRICE

His Excellency paid the longest price of the three heats, returning $13.10 for $2 after his surprise triumph—he had in which Dr. H. M. Pashall's recently ill Perpetual failed to show anything.

Despite Bill Gallon's poor showing at the start, the crowd rushed to the windows to back the southern colt in the last two dashes. As the result he paid only $3.40 for $2 in the second and $3.50 in the payoff mile.

Favorites Come Through At Coast

VANCOUVER, Aug. 7—(CP)—Rodney Pan won the Marathon trial, seventh and feature race of the afternoon racing card at Lansdowne Park Wednesday.

Bold Courtier was second and Sweet Maxi, third. Rodney Pan, ridden by jockey "Red" Johnson, paid $5.70, $2.80 and $2.20.

Bucket Brigade in the fifth heat paid the highest prices of the day returning $19.80, $7.55 and $2.80.

Punters were picking favorites and during a day of general low returns, the first double of Thistle Air in the first race to Hi-Duke in the second paid only $10.60. The double of Sky Breeze in the sixth to Rodney Pan in the seventh pooled $11.70.

Breeders Start Another Body In Ontario Tangle

HAMILTON, Aug. 7—(CP)—A new thoroughbred Breeders' Association to be known as the Ontario Thoroughbred Blood Stock Breeders' Association was reported here Wednesday to have been formed among a group of leading Ontario breeders. The Association was expected to apply shortly to the Ontario government for a charter.

The development was understood to be an outcome of the spring "strike" by the Thoroughbred Breeders' Association of Ontario in a dispute with the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association which resulted in the cancellation of the spring meeting at the Toronto Thorncliffe Park.

Purpose of the new organization, it was reported, was aimed on lines calculated to serve the best interests of the breeders and to give the public the best entertainment as possible in the form of racing.

(Attorney-General Gordon Conant of Ontario issued a 15 page report at Toronto last Friday on the racing situation in Ontario arising from T.B.A. representation on the board of the I.C.R.A. and recommended that racing continue under control of the I.C.R.A. but that breeders be given one-third representation of the racing associating directorate.

(The breeders representatives would be determined by a system whereby the breeders would choose by ballot twice the number of eligible directors and submit their names to the I.C.R.A. which would then select the required number.

(T.B.A. members decided at a meeting here the same night to "ignore" the Attorney-General's report.)

James Heffering of Toronto, former vice-president of the T.B.A. and for nine years a director of that body, is reported to be one of the prime movers in the new organization.

Brampton Loses

TORONTO, Aug 7—(CP)—Mimico Mountaineers defeated the Brampton Excelsiors 18-0 here Wednesday night in a senior Ontario lacrosse association contest. Billy Brunskill paced the Mountaineers, scoring six goals.

Tommy Brant Turns Back Leaders With Six Safe Blows

Dodgers added considerable lustre to their playoff chances in the Central Alberta Baseball League when they pinned a 4-2 defeat onto the Arrows at Renfrew Park on Wednesday night. They are now riding just a half game below the second-place Ponoka Stampeders whom they play tonight.

Tommy Brant pushed up a neat brand of slants for the Ralph Morgan crew, allowing the league leaders only six safe blows. Lefty Belter was also in good form, but the seven errors contributed by his team-mates had him behind the eight ball for five innings and several of them figured in runs.

The Arrows made one of their two most serious threats in the opening frame, when, after two were down Mac Colville rapped a single over second and Fred Kokura followed with a scratch hit through the pitcher's box. Brant then tightened up and struck out Jack Shamper.

STEWART SCORES

Cal. Pickles men were set up in business with one run in their half of the first session. Doug. Stewart was hit by Belter and Ken. McAuley sent him on to second with a sacrifice. Jim Kelly was safe on an error at second and Stewart reached home on the same play.

Although Ralph Morgan walked and Jack Williams clouted one out to right field no further damage resulted as Kelly was out at the plate—Shandro to Ornest to Lupul and Brockie flied out to third.

The Dodgers added their second counter in the fourth. Al. Lampiti got a life on an error at second and advanced to Hal. Homan's sacrifice. Brant drove out a single to left, and when Shamper let the ball go through Lampiti scored.

Arrows' only run of the count in the fifth. With one out, Lupul drew free transportation, went to third on Carney's single and completed the circuit on Kokura's single through the pitcher's box. Carney came in on the shortstop's error.

WINNING RUN

The Dodgers produced the winning punch in the seventh. Kelly opened with a single and Morgan reached first on shortstop's bad throw. Williams came through with his second hit for a perfect average and Kelly was on the scoring end. Manager Morgan also reached home port when the right fielder obliged with an error.

The Arrows managed to get two aboard on walks in the first half of the eighth, but no runs resulted and Umpire Dudley Smith called proceedings on account of darkness.

The fielding features of the night were Jack McGill's catch of Morgan's foul tip in the third which helped the Arrows out of a hole and Lampiti's throw to first in the seventh to retire Shandro after the latter had connected for a solid single, but took a fatally too much time in making the journey to first.

Whirlaway Wins Despite Weight Of 130 Pounds

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y., Aug. 7—(AP)—They loaded Whirlaway with everything but a milk-wagon Wednesday, but it made no difference at all to Warren Wright's whizz-bang.

Packing 130 pounds, the triple crown winner came back at Saratoga for his first start since Attention upset him in the Arlington Classic a week ago. For three quarters of a mile he was far back. Then he unhooked his crushing kick in the stretch and put his nose on the wire to win the one-mile Saranac Handicap from War Relic. Man O' War's speedy son.

The Kentucky cannonball did it too, while spotting War Relic 13 pounds and the others in the five-horse field all the way up to 22 in the weights. His time was 1:38. Piloting him was Alf Robertson, the steady Scot.

It didn't make much difference that Vic Emanuel's Omission wound up a surprisingly good third, only a half a length back of the "big hoss," while Hal Price Headley's Alsking and Mrs. Payne Whitney's the Rhymer trailed the others home.

For his victory, Whirly picked up $3,800, boosting his earnings for two years to $258,736. The Saranac was his tenth triumph of the year, five of the last eight of them in stakes.

Brooklyn Back In Lead Again By One Whisker

NEW YORK, Aug. 7—(AP)—Somebody is always rocking the boat in the National League. The boys ride along on an even keel for a couple of days and then, just when the fans take a deep breath for satisfaction, the jitterbugs start bouncing up and down.

Today Brooklyn Dodgers are back in first place in the senior circuit with a six-game winning streak and a margin of three percentage points over St. Louis Cardinals.

Furthermore the Pittsburgh Pirates, who yesterday were nine games out of first place, today are only eight away and still spouting fire and fury.

The Cardinals backed out of the scene by losing a 5-1 struggle to Cincinnati Reds, whose southpaw star, Johnny Vander Meer, was in good form again. He limited the Cards to eight hits, fanned nine and walked seven.

With the score of Cincinnati's conquest posted on the big black board in the Polo Grounds, the Dodgers stormed out in front of 32,791 New York fans last night and downed the Giants 3-1.

The Pirates achieved their fifth straight and 17th triumph in 20 games by overwhelming Chicago Cubs 13-3. The Buccaneers belted out 13 hits, one of which was a home run by Pitcher Truett "Rip" Sewell, who coasted to victory by scattered nine Chicago safeties.

Jockey Rides Four Winners

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—(CP)—Jockey L. Haskill rode four winners at Washington Park Wednesday.

He brought Bronte II home first in the first race and followed up in the second with Deepdene. The combination paid off on a $279.40 daily double. In the fourth, Haskill rode Valdina Alpha to victory and he completed his day's string of firsts with Bellringer in the eighth.

The number of post offices in Canada has increased from 3,470 at Confederation to more than 12,000.

Slammin' Sammy May Elect To Play Open In Bare Feet

By JIM COLEMAN

TORONTO, Aug. 7—(CP)—Samuel Jackson Snead of Shawnee-On-Delaware, Pa., demonstrated Wednesday that he is quite ready to defend his Canadian Open golf championship over suburban Lambton Golf and Country Club. Samuel shot two steady practice rounds and as the day wore on his putting touch was surer than it has been for many weeks.

However, he also demonstrated that his task in the Canadian Open might be easier if he elected to play in his bare feet.

Snead's sleuth brogans gave him a little trouble Wednesday afternoon as he drifted them and gave them to his caddy with orders to perform a small repair job. In his bare feet he watched Horton Smith and Tom Draper, a St. Louis amateur, drive 300 yards from the first tee.

DRIVES WITHOUT SHOES

Then with one foot completely nude and the other covered skimpily by a sock, Snead lashed out a terrific drive which split the fairway cleanly and rocketed almost to the green, 357 yards away.

"Boy!" yelped Snead, turning to his caddy, "just forgot about those shoes."

Earlier in the day Snead, who seeks to retain the Seagram Gold Cup which he won at Toronto Scarborough course last year, had shot a 70 during a tune-up round with Gene Sarazen, Jules Huot and Stanley Horne.

HUOT LOW MAN

Huot, the little fellow from Quebec City, was a low man with a 69. Horne bagged a 71 and Sarazen played the last nine holes in even par after taking six over on the outgoing nine.

Hottest man on the sun-baked Lambton course yesterday was Bobby Reith of the Essex Country Club at Windsor and former Manitoba amateur champ from Winnipeg who shot himself a glittering 67.

The American contingent this year numbers 18 professionals and seven amateurs out of total tournament entry of 120.

Although relatively small, the American contingent is impressive. Besides Snead, Sarazen and Smith, such notables performers as Ky Laffoon, Ray Mangrum, Lloyd Mangrum, Johnny Bulla, Bobby Cruickshank and Willie Goggin are on the grounds.

First 16 of the 72-hole test will be played Thursday and another on Friday. Then the field will be whittled to the top-ranking 60 contenders and the final 36 holes will be contested late Saturday.

Trolling For Tuna Too Much Like Work

A MAN'S description of his most recent golf bout—where this shot went, how that putt missed by a cricket's whisker, how he hooked his next drive and finally reached the green thanks to a phenomenal recovery with his No. X-49 sadiron—is always, to me, so much verbal chloroform. But I can listen until the cows come home and go back out in the morning to any gentleman's blow-by-blow account of his bout with a fish.

Man and boy, I have probably spent more hard-earned money and more never recapturable man-hours trying to catch something passably respectable in the way of a fish than any run-of-the-mine city fisherman you know, and with results that, to coin an expression, you could put in your eye. I turned over and almost drowned in the Bangor pool after salmon. I've been off the rugged shores of Catalina after yellow-tail, or whatever would cooperate and nothing did. Every winter for 10 years, I've tried to bargain with the sail fish, tarpon, or whatever off Florida. I've been after whatever lives, moves, and has its being in the broad brick-red mouth of the Mississippi, down there 90 miles south of New Orleans. I've dared the tarpon to the east and west of Galveston, I've been after tuna in Ipswich Bay. The stripers in the surf of Cape Cod and Rhode Island.

I own enough books on salt-water fishing to stock a small town library, and enough rods and reels and lines and gadgets to outfit the show window of a big city store. And the cold truth of the matter is that I've never caught a doggoned thing. Oh, an inconsequential eel or a sea robin. But I mean FISH!

Guides invariably beguile me with awesome tales of how they were striking this morning or yesterday or last week or last year, but something's always happened in the meantime. The tide isn't just right, or the wind has turned, or that recent storm rolled the water too much.

• • •

MAYBE you haven't heard how sport fishing—salt-water this means—has moved in on the New England summertime scene of late years. The miracle of tuna—they used to call them "horse mackerel" off Portland, harpoon 'em and let 'em thrash it out with x barrel—means almost as much to New England hotel life in these times as the international yacht races used to mean in Newport, or the Harvard-Yale boat race used to mean to New London.

Personally, I want no part of a tuna. The work's too hard.

You troll for 'em with a rod as big as a hoe-handle, and a reel the size of a kid's Christmas drum. They strap both to you with a harness that looks like a traffic cop's galluses, and park you in a screwed-down chair with a quick-ly-jerk-outable back.

This particular fish is about the size of an elk, and fanging one on a line is practically the same as getting a lasso over the smokestack of a runaway locomotive. If the varmint runs, he could conceivably take you overboard, harness, non-handle and all, in which event it would become a fairly pretty problem as to which was doing the fishing, you or the tuna.

WHEN TUNA GOES BELOW

IF he sounds, which is nautical language for going downstairs, yours is the back-breaking job of horsing him up. This calls for the performance known as "pumping." It consists, roughly, of leaning 'way forward, then as far backward as you can—that's why they take the back out of the chair. By holding the rod rigid, and bringing it up with you, you either throw out your sacro-iliac, or move the ponderous and stubborn critter upward a couple of feet. If it chances to be the latter, you bend forward again, lowering the rod quickly, but in the same rigid arc, and, in the meantime, you reel in furiously to take in as much line as you "made" on the previous pull.

This goes on and on, until the tuna grows annoyed and decides to make another run. You have to let him have line in this miserable crisis or risk his breaking it with brute force and going on to Newfoundland. When he stops, after tearing off maybe a couple of hundred yards, you start pumping again—two feet, or so per pump.

It can readily be seen that this might grow monotonous, especially when it's remembered that that ocean is five miles deep in places. Men, too proud to cut the line, have sometimes been hauled by these things for a couple of days.

The times I've been for tuna, I've been afraid we might get one, rather than apprehensive lest we might fail. It added up to the same in the long run, however, as all the tuna I've ever tangled with came in tins from the corner grocery.

Two Surprises Feature Tennis Tourney At Rye

RYE, N.Y., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Two surprises were recorded Wednesday as most of the favorites paraded into the quarter finals of the eastern United States court tennis championships.

Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., ranked seventh nationally and seeded eighth in this tournament, bowed out before William Talbert of Cincinnati and Jack Kramer of Los Angeles, the country's sixth-ranking player, was eliminated by Bryan "Bitsy" Grant of Atlanta, Ga.

Otherwise the favored stars came through handily against fairly strong opposition. Bobby Riggs, Don McNeill, newlywed Frank Kovacs, Wayne Sabin, Frank Parker and Ted Schroeder completed the round of eight in the men's singles.

In the women's division the only surprise came when Patricia Canning of Hidden Valley, Calif., eliminated another young Californian star, Louise Brough, who recently upset Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke. Joining her in the quarter finals were top-seeded Pauline Bentz, Mrs. Cooke, Mrs. Kovacs, Mary Arnold, Margaret Osborne, Dorothy Bundy and Hope Knowles. All but Mrs. Cooke and Miss Knowles are Californians.

The Talbert-Mulloy match was the biggest surprise to the galleries. The Cincinnati player has been competing against top-flight stars and giving them trouble for a couple of seasons. Yesterday his game was just right while Mulloy was just enough off form to cause his defeat, 6-0, 6-4.

New Zealanders Dominate Track Meet At Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Aug. 7—(CP)—Royal New Zealand Air Force athletes entered here held the spotlight Wednesday night at a track meeting sponsored by the Manitoba branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

In the half mile race, New Zealanders ran one, two, three, John Colbert led the way to the tape, followed by W. N. Hollands and C. G. Finch.

Flt. Lt. H. K. Running was unable to defend the title won by Flt. Lt. Running's home address was given as Winnipeg but it was believed he came here from eastern Canada.

Another New Zealander, L. A. Court, pushed Howard Gehing of Winnipeg to a jump of 11 feet, 6 inches in the pole vault competition before admitting defeat.

Ponoka Opens Vital Series With Dodgers Here Tonight

TONIGHT at Renfrew Park, the Edmonton Dodgers begin a life and death series with the Ponoka Stampeders. If Ponoka can beat the Morgan Men here tonight and again at Ponoka on Sunday the Dodgers will not have a chance to make the Central Alberta Baseball League playoff.

Actually the Dodgers and Ponoka have three games left to play against each other, the third one being a replay of their 8-8 deadlock here. It will only be played however in the event that is becomes necessary to determine final standings.

Ralph Morgan will in all probability take over the pitching for the Dodgers tonight and have Tommy Brant ready for Sunday's engagement.

Ponoka Stampeders have their full pitching squad ready. Jimmy Rattlesnake is the probable starter tonight, although Charlie Lewis has Rule and the Hawley battery in reserve if he needs them or the Reiter unit feeling just right.

Starting time is 6:30 p.m.

FOOTLESS BEDS

One of the important items in furniture news is the increasing use of footless beds. You will find them with modern period or colonial headboards. One of the most adaptable however is the footless bed with upholstered headboard. These can be slipcovered with material matching the draperies or some fabric offering a pleasing contrast. Dressing table skirt and boudoir chair might also be done in the same material. Another type headboard has a central panel upholstered in white muslin to be covered in a fabric of your own selection. The panel is held in place by little metal clips. Simply stretch the material over the panel, fasten with thumb tacks and replace the panel. Both of these two styles offer wide opportunity for interesting and individual treatment.

New Locator Finds Trapped Persons

LONDON, Aug. 7—(CP)—A radio locator for finding persons trapped under debris of bombed buildings has been invented by R. C. Moore, Brighton electrical engineer.

It is an electrical amplifying device and padded loudspeaker three feet tall. The bell of the horn is placed against heaps of ruins absorbing every sound. Tests showed deep breathing, tapping and whispers were clearly heard.

With headphones and a small microphone, a tester threw a small switch and talked to a man who had crawled into a hole under a big pile of rubble. When the switch was reversed the man was able to reply.

Moore said he worked two months on the invention which cost less than $300. He used part of $1,000 donated anonymously for air raid precautions work.

The invention has not been patented and will be available for any local authorities.

Mountain Grandeur In National Park

Getting Around with JOHN OLIVER

IN THE backyard of a home in the neighborhood in which I live, I watched two small boys enthusiastically engaged in construction of a toy airplane. They went about their business with a concentration that bespoke of rapid work. To them, the building of their plane was a project as tremendous as that confronting the experts who build the giant $3,500,000 Boeing B-19 with a wingspread wider than the length of a city block between numbered streets—not the avenues—and which will use fuel by the ton when it makes its non-stop trans-Atlantic round trips.

The seriousness of purpose displayed by the two little fellows referred to, evidences the airmindedness of youth today, youth that will soon grow up to fly casually across the seas and probably to design and pilot the greater airliners of the future. The picture of the young workmen, fully confident of their ability to produce a first class machine, also impressed with the realization that there is something universal in the desire to create tiny replicas of things that thrill us.

* * *

When clipper craft with sails were the fastest things at sea, men fussed in their spare time with ship models, specializing in those with their matchstick masts hinged at the deck for insertion through a bottleneck. When the Iron Horse puffed its way across the Dominion and through the passes and gorges of the Rockies, model railroads, complete with switches and sidings, entered the home. And now the model plane—flea-powered with gasoline as some are, or propeller-spun by the unwinding of rubber bands, radio-controlled, or flung to the mercy of the air currents. This has become the universal toy of boys today.

* * *

After all, toys, for the most part, are miniatures of the things we admire and which are prominent in the life of the people as a whole. They help us visualize in small compass the great structures made by man and the still greater structure of nature that man has come to understand. Referring to the greatest structure of all: no sooner did astronomers achieve some working vision of the starry universe than model makers came along and mimicked it with their planetariums. They couldn't resist the temptation of playing with the planets, the sun and stars; of making the heavenly bodies stand still at will or even run backwards.

* * *

These are days when cooling drinks are welcome. There are some more or less standard summer beverages that retain their popularity year after year. On the other hand those who connect these thirst-chasers are ever on the alert for new combinations. Strolling into the cool shade of a favorite soda fountain, where the bar is shiny and bright with varicolored bottles and gay with a basketfull of fruit and after examining the sparkling-looking bottles, which in reality contain the most intriguing, yet most innocent libations imaginable, I was persuaded to try the latest invention of the charming young lady who has a knack of blending them.

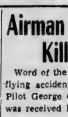

* * *

This "cocktail," so I was told, is a mixture of strawberry and grapefruit juices, a healthful, unsweetened distillation of pure fruit, clear and concentrated. While tastes differ, I found it refreshing and the blend is here recorded simply because it was not hitherto encountered. Maybe it is an old story to many patrons of the soda fountains. But it was just what was needed under the circumstances.

Airman Dingley Killed Overseas

Word of the death in Britain in a flying accident on July 30 of Sgt. Pilot George Cuthbert Dingley, 22, was received by relatives here this week. Sgt. Pilot Dingley formerly lived in Vernon, B.C., where he is survived by his father, Alfred Dingley, a veteran of the First Great War.

G. Dingley

On May 19 last he was married to Miss Beryl C. Forbes of 10555 93 street. The marriage took place in Edmonton shortly before Sgt. Pilot Dingley left for overseas. The flier was in Britain only a few days when the accident occurred.

He enlisted in Edmonton in the summer of 1940, training successively at Toronto, Vancouver, Macleod and Charlottetown. He received his wings at Macleod training school.

The late airman was educated at Vernon public and high schools and was a keen fishing and hunting enthusiast.

Officer Returns From Overseas

Lt. Col. Philip Debney, M.M., who left here early in 1940 in command of the 9th Army Troops Company, Royal Canadian Engineers, returned here Wednesday. He left early Thursday for Calgary and Lethbridge and is expected to return again Saturday or Sunday.

Serving in the infantry in the Great War, Lt. Col. Debney, while still in the ranks, was awarded the Military Medal. Following the war, he retained his association with the army and rose to command the Edmonton Regiment. Later when his four-year term as officer commanding automatically expired, he retired, and when the post of officer commanding the 9th Army Troops Company became vacant, he assumed command.

This unit was mobilized immediately war broke out and in order to go overseas he reverted to the rank of major.

He has been promoted to lieutenant-colonel again and has returned, according to reports, to receive an important appointment.

Chamber Of Commerce Gives Plan Support: M.H.O. Stresses Need

Canadian Chamber of Commerce branches throughout Canada have been invited to endorse a government-sponsored nation-wide health campaign by the Health League of Canada. It is pointed out in a letter received by the Edmonton Chamber from the parent body that poor health is costing Canada a tremendous price during the present critical war period.

That such a campaign of education for public health by the dominion government is a vital necessity at the present time, was stressed by Dr. G. M. Little, city medical health officer, in an address to the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce executive council Wednesday.

The resolution of the Health League of Canada will be endorsed by the Edmonton Chamber.

Fully 50 per cent of all illness is preventable, providing the co-operation of the general public on behalf of themselves could be secured, Dr. Little declared.

That the health of a nation takes on greater importance than ever in time of war was made clear by Dr. Little when he stated that 47 per cent of U.S. army selectees reporting to the draft boards have been suffering from some major physical defect rendering them unfit for military duty.

LONGER LIFE SPAN

On the other hand, the speaker showed how the advance of medical science in the past 100 years has resulted in a great lengthening of the average life span. One hundred years ago the average length of life was just 40 years. Today it is over 60 years and soon, it is hoped to bring the average over 70 years.

Dr. Little delivered a report on behalf of Dr. J. F. Brander, president of the Alberta Association of Physicians and Surgeons.

Speaks On Health

Dr. G. M. Little, city medical health officer, who stressed the advisability of the general public taking greater interest in matters pertaining to health at a meeting of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce executive council Wednesday.

The Scribe's Good At Checking

The Office Has A Laugh On Him

Other Folks: Is His Face Red!

"If the cap fits wear it" or "people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones" might be alternative titles for this story.

It's a yarn about The Bulletin's police reporter, recently returned from a vacation at the Pacific coast, who gives the bobbies a hand in everything from keeping law and order to finding missing persons. And he still finds time to tell of life's trials and tribulations in "Through the Mill."

As we were about to say, "The Scribe" (as he's known to members of the craft) wrote a rather critical story the other day about careless citizens who have a habit of losing their registration cards. Fifty missing cards had been turned over to police, he wrote, and losers could have same by calling at the city police station.

Then rubbing his hands with the air of a job well done, he sat down to await results.

Comes now the denouement, as the French say.

A letter addressed to The Bulletin arrived today. It was written by G. M. Ford, of Bowen Island, B.C. (Ah, a clue! Maybe the Scribe going there?) It stated simply that the writer had found the enclosed card, somewhere on the Island.

Buy British Campaign To Be Launched

A "Buy British" campaign to assist the Motherland economically in her great struggle against the Nazis, will shortly be inaugurated in Edmonton by the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

A committee selected by C. F. Martin, chairman of the retail section of the Chamber, is holding a meeting Friday at 5 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce offices to make preliminary plans for staging a "Buy British Week" in Edmonton.

Selection of Mr. Martin to form a committee was made at the regular meeting of the Chamber executive council Wednesday.

U.S. IN CAMPAIGN

Of great interest to the Chamber here is the fact that "Buy British" campaigns have been successfully staged, or are in the process of being staged, in many of the large U.S. cities. Cities that report a splendid response from such campaigns are: Los Angeles, New York, Portland, and San Francisco.

A very interesting letter was received by the Chamber here from "The Committee to Aid Britain by Reciprocal Trade" in Portland. At Portland the mayor issued a proclamation for the campaign, with merchants displaying British goods prominently in all parts of the city.

Further announcements as to the campaign here will be made soon.

Gasoline Saving Aids Tram Fares

Gasoline conservation by Edmontonians is advanced as the main reason for the all-time passenger record set by the street railway during July of this year, according to Thomas Ferrier, street railway superintendent, who announced Thursday that 1,-348,860 passengers were carried by the system during the month compared with 1,233,379 last year, an increase of 115,481.

During the first seven months of 1941 the increase in passenger traffic was 3,763,820, compared with 2,-393,550 last year, an increase this year of 370,270, Mr. Ferrier stated. Total number of passengers carried during the seven months this year is in excess of 9,000,000, he added.

It is significant, he stated, that approximately one-third of the passenger increase this year over last has occurred in July, which would lead to the conclusion that Edmontonians are taking seriously the gasoline conservation appeals of Dominion federal government. Mr. Ferrier added that street railway patronage, in the morning, afternoon and evening, would indicate that many motor car users are now travelling to and from work by street car.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the suggestion, made in the east, that the term "boys" be discontinued in ordinary speech, as a reference to men in the army, and that they be referred to in terms more acknowledging their manhood?

THE ANSWERS

DONALD DEWAR, Macdonald hotel: Like a good many other things, it is good in theory, but is not likely to work out in actual practice. After all, every person acknowledges the manhood of the men enlisting in His Majesty's forces. We all know they are real men and tackling a big job. When they are called "boys" it is a term of endearment and not one that by any stretch of the imagination will cause people to think of them as anything but men in every sense of the word.

DAPHNE PRUETTE, stenographer: I don't think there is much chance of changing the public. In song and story, the men of the armed services are referred to as "boys." It is a term accepted by all and none construe it as being derogatory or as indicating the service men are anything but real "he men" either mentally or physically.

* * *

FRANK THORNDYKE, salesman: In my opinion there isn't much use trying to alter what has become general practice. The public endearingly refers to men of the army, navy and air force as "boys," and I think they will continue to do so.

Recruit Comes All Way From Alex. Holliday Joins Air Force

Fort Simpson To Enlist

I Saw Today

Dick Adams hurrying along to work; Lily Nielson busily at work at her typewriter; Joe McHale stopping to talk with a friend; Denis Delquist discussing an issue from behind a lunch counter; Irene Ling dodging traffic at an intersection; Mrs. E. There's one fellow, now in the Royal Canadian Air Force, who came a long, long way for his enlistment. He's Alfred Alexander Holliday, 20, formerly in charge of the Hudson's Bay Company trading post at Fort Simpson, in the far north. Wednesday night he left here for an eastern manning pool and training as a pilot-observer with the R.C.A.F.

Earlier this week the smart keen-eyed northerner flew all the way from Ft. Simpson to Edmonton at his own expense in order to enlist at the recruiting station here for service with the air force. He was successful in passing all the qualifications, and was accepted for training.

3 BROTHERS IN SERVICE

Alfred's enlistment means that five of the Holliday brothers are now on active service. Another brother is in the air force, two are in the army, one is in the merchant marine, and the fifth is engaged in vital war work. They were all born in England, and their mother, Mrs. H. Stanley Holliday, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, Eng., is still living.

Pit. Lt. Harry E. Jones, officer commanding the Edmonton recruiting centre, said Thursday that several northern men are being enlisted with the R.C.A.F., and nearly all of them sign up for air crew training. All these men are highly regarded as fine air force personnel, he added.

Reikie-Hodgson Wedding Vows Are Pledged

UNDER an archway comprised of spicy evergreens and stately gladioli on the emerald green lawns at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hodgson a lovely twilight wedding ceremony was performed on Wednesday, when their daughter Audrey, spoke wedding vows with Rev. E. Sinclair Reikie, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Reikie of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. Young and Rev. T. T. Reikie, uncle of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a floor-length gown of flowing white sheer, fashioned with square neckline, gathered bodice and bouffant skirt. Worn with this was a chapel veil of misted white net, caught to the head with a dainty cluster of pearls. Two silver bracelets, worn by her grandmother on her wedding day, ensured happiness in carrying out the theme of "something old". Completing her ensemble she carried a bouquet of gladioli in delicate peach tones.

Miss Betty Sands was a pretty bridesmaid in her forget-me-not blue taffeta frock which was fashioned with full skirt, high neckline tight bodice and short puffed sleeves. On her head she wore sweetheart roses and she carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Robert Reikie supported his brother as best man. Mrs. Doris Reikie, sister of the bridegroom, was soloist, singing "Because".

RECEPTION TO 35

Following the ceremony, a reception to thirty-five guests was held. Mrs. Hodgson received her guests wearing a modish navy sheer afternoon frock, a navy felt hat and navy accessories. A note of color was lended by her corsage of red roses pinned to her shoulder. Mrs. Reikie chose for her son's wedding a smart frock of dove gray crepe with which she wore cyclamen accessories and a corsage of cyclamen gladioli.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with pink sweet peas and imbedded in white tulle in which pink sweet peas were scattered. Tall ivory candles sent a soft glow over the table. Throughout the house, bouquets of gladioli and sweet peas were used in delicate profusion. A toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. W. Young.

TO THE COAST

After the ceremony, the bridal couple left on a wedding trip to Vancouver and Victoria, the bride changed to a dusty pink crepe dress, over which she wore a top-coat in dove gray and rose and gray accessories. On return, Mr. and Mrs. Reikie will make their home at Kitscoty, Alta.

Out-of-town guests attending the ceremony included Mrs. John Cladder of Luscar, Mrs. Lorne Ingle of Victoria and Mrs. Hugh McAfee of Calgary.

One of the most important weddings to be held in the north for some time was performed in Fort Simpson, N.W.T. on Friday, July 25, when Edith Isabelle Foster of Stroughton, Sask. became the bride of Cpl. Given in marriage by Mr. James Cree, the bride was a charming picture as her marriage wearing a smartly tailored navy suit accented with crisp white accessories. For her flowers she carried a sheaf of fragrant sweet peas in pastel tones.

Mrs. G. S. Isbister officiated as matron-of-honor wearing a modish afternoon frock of tailored navy, with white trim. Pinned to her shoulder she wore a corsage of sweet peas. Sergeant D. W. Bastock, R.C.C.S. supported the bridegroom as best man.

Local Girl Has War Nursing As Part Training

TIED in with every war are tales of death and human suffering, of courage, of bravery, of hope and of despair. Leaving a note of graciousness and gentleness to the horror are the many staunch British born and Canadian girls, who have dedicated themselves to their country by taking up and joining with the nursing profession.

Edmonton is proud to claim just such a girl in Miss Margaret Bell, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Bell of this city, who at the outbreak of war in September, 1939, bade "goodbye" to her friends in Canada and sailed for England to enter the school of nursing at the Gilliford hospital in Surrey, England.

Today, Miss Bell is completing her second year in her four-year course. She writes her parents of many harrowing experiences that the war has brought into her life at the hospital.

On one occasion, German bombs landing close by, completely shattered all windows in the hospital. Many of the Dunkirk victims were patients of Miss Bell. On another occasion, a number of British sailors were brought to the hospital, badly burned about the face and arms. These were men, whose boat had been sunk by German torpedoes, and who, on being thrown into the icy water, were "warmed up" by the Germans, who poured oil on the top of the water and set fire to it.

Nursing hours are long and fatiguing. Miss Bell works the usual eight hours a day. In her "off" hours, she spends the hours off and two hours on duty doing fire patrol work, that is, watching for incendiary bombs.

She goes up to London frequently, speaks of the wonderful spirit of the people. They just don't let themselves think about the horror of it, she writes. They carry on, as though they did not know that homes and all they hold dear to them are tumbling about their heads. There is nothing else to do.

Miss Bell has not met many Edmonton soldiers since she has been at the hospital, although many Canadian boys come to the Gilliford hospital. One Edmonton friend she has discovered is Mr. Peter Glyll, well-known Gyro Club member of this city.

BORN IN ENGLAND

Born in Durham, England, Miss Bell lived in Edmonton for about ten years before leaving two years ago for Surrey. She has a host of friends in school and club circles throughout the city. While here she attended St. Mary's High school on 103 street, and Separate Commercial school. Her plans for the future are indefinite. She will remain in England, continuing her nursing for the duration of the war. After that, she may return home.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix: I am 46 years old and until the last few months I was the sole support of my aged parents, and was so happy in my work and in caring for them that I never felt the need for outside interests. For a number of years I rarely left home except to go to work. Now both my loved ones are gone and I am so lonely and miserable that I don't know what to do or which way to turn, though I have a splendid position, a comfortable home and friends who have tried hard to help me by inviting me into their homes. But I don't enjoy going out among people. Do you think it would be better for me to cease living alone? I think it unwise to live with relatives. I detest the thought of a boarding house, and since I have always had the freedom of a home I am afraid I would miss it. On the other hand, I am dying of loneliness. Some of my friends have expressed the hope that I would marry, but that doesn't appeal to me. I am more or less set in my ways and am too well able to look after myself to risk letting go of my freedom, even if I had an opportunity, and I presume that opportunities for women as old as myself are not easy to find. What shall I do?

Dorothy Dix

IN NEED OF SOMETHING.

Answer: Devoted daughters make a great mistake when they let their parents monopolize them, for the time is bound to come when the old people pass on to their reward and the daughter is left alone in a world in which she has been cut off so long from the interests and amusements of her age and class that she is virtually a stranger.

She has lived with old people so long that she has acquired old thoughts and old ways. She has gone about so little that she has lost the social habit and feels awkward and shy in a crowd.

She has lost touch with her own generation and their amusements bore her. It is an exertion for her to be entertaining and she would rather stay by herself than make the effort.

Every young woman who is bound to sacrifice her life to her parents should make a heroic effort to save some part of it for herself against the day when they will be gone. It is a difficult thing to do, for old people are greedy and grasping and will take all they can get from their children.

It is an almost impossible thing for a loving child to keep from being enslaved by the old parents who are dependent upon him or her. In your case, what's done is done. That is finished. Your problem is to find a new way of life, and that is not easy for any woman who is suddenly cut off from her old routine.

You are quite right in not going to live with your relatives. That is virtually always a mistake. Not seeing too much of them is the only sure way of keeping on good terms with them.

As for marrying, why not, provided you marry in your own age class?

DOROTHY DIX.

Seersucker Shirtwaist Fashion to the Fore

Loved by enthusiastic, serious golfers are shirtwaist dresses of washable seersucker—which, incidentally, requires no ironing. The golf dress, left, comes in brown and white, gray and white or navy and white stripes, has deep armholes and an action back and is worn with a leather belt, designed especially for golfers. A smart new leather belt in contrasting shade, ornamented by colorful tees, inserted in spaces left for the purpose. The ensemble is ideal for other casual midsummer wear, too, bonting, tennis or for spectator sports.

Alberta Women Make Jams For Red Cross

Trying to keep clamoring housewives supplied with special tins for jam to be sent overseas to the British people, is getting to be a problem with the Red Cross for, in the past two days, no less than 800 tins have been shipped to country points near Edmonton, in addition to those distributed within the city.

The campaign, started with 100 tins on hand, each to contain four pounds, out of the 40,000 pounds wanted for Britain. The first 100 tins were disposed of quickly, and another 400 received Wednesday, and the second lot already have gone or have been requested.

A third lot of 400 tins will be received by the special jam depot of the Red Cross, 840 Tegler building, Friday, ready for further distribution.

Filled with delicious jam for the people of Britain, 24 of the four-pounds tins already have been returned to the depot ready for shipment east, from where they will be sent to England.

Manse Home Is Setting For Marriage

At a quiet home ceremony held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Wright, of Edmonton, Hazel Dorothy Wright, of Edmonton, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wright, of Streamstown, Alberta, pledged marriage vows with Stanley Wilbur MacLean, also of Edmonton, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. MacLean of Dewberry Alberta. Rev. M. L. Wright officiated.

For her wedding the bride chose a pretty floor-length frock of pink tulle over satin, worn with a tiny bolero jacket to match. From a wreath of pink rosettes her veil of dainty pink net fell to the floor in soft folds. On her arm she carried a bouquet of yellow and jasmine roses.

Among the guests at the wedding were Mrs. C. J. Wright, mother of the bride, Mrs. W. S. MacLean, mother of the bridegroom. Miss Varina MacLean, sister of the bridegroom, and Mr. Calvin and Mr. Kenneth Wright, brothers of the bride.

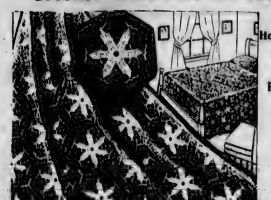

Mr. and Mrs. MacLean have taken up residence in Edmonton.

What To Do

What is the correct way to eat corn-on-the-cob? I am very fond of this vegetable but hesitate to order it in a restaurant because it is so difficult to eat.

Answer—Corn-on-the-cob is best eaten only at the family dinner table, but you should be able to manage it in a restaurant.

Sometimes it is served with silver handles stuck into both ends of the cob but more often you are obliged to hold it in your fingers.

The ears should be broken before serving so they may be held in one hand, but if this has not been done, never break them at the table. Try to avoid smearing your mouth and chin with butter, and approach the task of eating the corn slowly or you will resemble a dog gnawing a bone.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

Before leaving San Francisco to continue my transcontinental bridge tour, I must tell you about one dynamic personality who is making a name for herself in Pacific coast bridge, Maureen O'Brien.

Her conversation and coined phrases are as original and snappy as her line of reasoning at the bridge table. Not only can she think quickly, but she is able to conceal from her opponents what is going through her mind. Here is a quick decision that helped her win the All-Western masters pair title with Wilbur Hayhurst of Los Angeles.

The hand was played at three no trump by North at most tables.

After the spade lead, most of the declarers could see no possibility but to hold off the spades to be sure of exhausting West. Then if West held the ace of hearts, the king would produce declarer's ninth trick. Of course, when West held the trick with the king of spades, he shifted to the queen of hearts and the defenders cashed six tricks in a hurry.

Miss O'Brien, sitting North, made a quick decision that to hold up the spade ace was dangerous and had only a 50 per cent chance of being useful. She won at once with the ace and ran the diamonds, hoping to wreck the adverse hands.

Many people believe that the flower commonly called "Touch-me-not" is so-called because it is poisonous. But the truth is that this is quite an innocent flower, indeed. It is classed as a harmless plant and its forbidding name is said to have derived from the fact that the seed containers will explode on being touched. However, even this is not true unless the seeds are very ripe and ready to explode anyway. "Touch-me-if-you-wish" would be a better name, or "touch-me-and-see-me-burst" — but why "touch-me-not"?

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It takes judgment for a mother to know when to leave well enough alone and when to be dissatisfied with things as they are.

For it is just as great a mistake to hold a baby back, by refusing to make changes in his diet, or ways of eating, or by refusing to give him opportunities to develop and advance, as it is to force him to new stunts for which he is unready and unwilling.

When a child is able to sit up he is ready, also to drink liquids from a cup. But just because at five months, perchance, he can drink two or three ounces of water and orange juice from a cup, does not mean that he may be ready to negotiate all of his bottle formula by cup. The whole process is so new and wearisome that the baby would be ready to stop drinking long before he had had his quota of milk.

The wise way is to continue offering orange juice and water by cup and some part of each milk formula, finishing with the bottle when baby acts fatigued and indifferent to it. It is no crime if a baby is still taking some milk from a bottle at 9 to 12 months. However, it would be if he could take all of his milk by cup if encouraged to do so by his mother, who continues with the bottle because she doesn't want to be bothered by the more tiring cup-feeding.

The baby grows and changes every month of its life, and there are no such things as unchanging habits unless the mother herself is reluctant to usher in a new one.

She must be ready for changes from bottle to cup, from sieved foods to chopped or mashed foods, from baby in a carriage to baby in a playpen, so that the baby will have the opportunity to acquire those new skills and habits which advertise his age and intelligence.

When Mrs. T. wonders what could be wrong with her baby's nutrition and she explains that at 18 months he is still getting a bottled formula and strained foods, she answers her own question.

This baby is long past the age of bottles; he is ready for more exercise of his jaws and teeth in chewing, and he'll be better fed and happier when he has daily practice in being his age.

Our leaflet, "Teaching Use of Cup and Spoon," will explain how one can help a child to learn these arts. It will be mailed to you without charge if you will write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a three-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter.

Easy Cakes For Hot Day Porch Parties

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Cold drinks and a slice of fresh cake form one way to spell simple and welcome hot weather porch hospitality.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

Two cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup butter or other shortening, 1½ cups brown sugar, firmly packed, 2 eggs or 3 egg yolks, unbeaten, 2 to 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly and add sugar gradually. Cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each; then add chocolate and blend. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, a small amount at a time beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased pan, 13 by 9 by 2 inches, in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 35 to 45 minutes, or until done.

Or bake in greased pan, 10 by 10 by 2 inches, in moderate oven (325 deg. F.) 60 minutes, or until done. Spread whipped cream over cake and decorate with grated chocolate.

ONE-EGG CAKE

Two cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons butter or other shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, unbeaten, ¾ cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

NETHERLANDS NAVY

LONDON, Aug. 7—(CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation reported Tuesday that the Royal Netherlands Navy is increasing the strength of its personnel in the Netherlands East Indies.

McCoy Health Service

As I explained yesterday, meat is a very good source of Vitamins in the B group, as well as other vitamins, and I have always maintained that if good foods are eaten in the proper combinations, then there is no need to resort to the vitamin tablets and capsules obtained from the druggists. A great deal of expensive research has been and is being carried on by the universities of the world studying vitamins and their uses and the results of their deficiencies.

Meat is a good source of the anti-pellagra vitamin. The property of this vitamin is to prevent pellagra, a disease which is rarely seen in the United States, except in certain districts where the diet of a large part of the people is impoverished. A mild form of this disease is seen frequently all over the country, and if the diet is not corrected to give a sufficient amount of this anti-pellagra factor, serious skin eruptions, inflammation of the tongue, and other complications ensue.

At one time scientific investigations have shown this to be fallacious. However, some years ago when these ideas were flourishing, Dr. Frank McCoy was roundly condemned by his colleagues for prescribing a diet containing meat, to those suffering from hypertension or high blood pressure.

Mal-nutrition does not always mean an empty dinner pail. It often exists in the presence of plenty. Too much of the wrong kind of food, poorly balanced meals, bad combinations of foods, and other factors, may cause the diet to be deficient in vitamins, and in minerals or proteins, so necessary to fuel the body machine.

Let me invite my readers to study Dr. Frank McCoy's menus for the week which will appear in this column next Friday. These menus contain all of the necessary elements required to build a strong, healthy body, and to maintain good health.

Those readers who are interested in further information on the subject of today's column are invited to send for Dr. Frank McCoy's special article entitled "Value of Meat". Just address your request to McCoy Health Service, enclosing a large self-addressed stamped envelope and five cents in stamps, and your copy will be in the mail right away.

SILK SIEGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 7 — (AP) — The siege of New York department store stocking counters was extended Tuesday to the silk lingerie department. Underwear sales were reported to have jumped to record proportions.

A smartly unusual corsage of gladioli blossoms with roses tucked into their centres is a charming gift to give or wire to a friend. The suit is of natural shantung—this year's favorite fabric for summer suits and ensembles.

Points For Parents

By EDITH THOMAS WALLACE

Father: "We were all getting cross because we were tired sitting still. We'll run about a bit in this little park and take some pictures."

Father: "I can't help it if you are tired. We have to make 600 miles today if we live up to our schedule. You want to see all those places, don't you?"

A vacation trip which covers less territory and allows time for rest and fun is more enjoyable than a longer one accompanied by rush and tension.

Home Service

If your attempts at golf have been feeble and discouraging how marvelous the club champion seems as, with a mighty swing she drives the ball 200 yards down the fairway.

Yet she probably once did as badly as you and she may have no more strength or ability. But with right instructions she has learned how to use her strength.

Golf is such fun, wins so many social rewards when you play well. Test your swing. Do you feel cramped, make a conscious effort to lift your club, turn your body? Then you're not really swinging, you're wasting your strength.

For a powerful accurate stroke swing the club in a smooth arc, allowing the body to respond to the outward pull of the club, but making no forced effort to pivot.

A good trick to get the feel of a real swing is to take a string with a weight attached to one end and swing this in a gradually increasing arc. Now take up your club, swing in the same way.

Your golf improves rapidly when you understand the principles. In our 32-page booklet, Ernest Jones, teacher of champions, tells how to hold the club, how to stand and swing with the maximum of power and efficiency. For beginners and more advanced golfers.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of Swing's the Thing in Golf to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service, 60 Front Street West, Toronto, Ontario. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Bulgaria To Pay For Her Perfidy Eden Declares

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP)—One of Britain's lesser but firm aims is to see to it that Bulgaria gets none of the best of it when the peace comes.

This was suggested Wednesday by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Recalling that Bulgaria had seized opportunity to take "large areas in Greek and Yugoslav territory" while those countries were backed to the wall by Germany and Italy, Eden added:

"She may rest assured that in the end her ill-gotten gains will not benefit her. Her action will not be forgotten by ourselves nor by our allies when the day of reckoning comes."

Building Plan Negotiations Fall Through

Negotiations between the city and local representatives of an American financial institution for the financing of a building project here under which 200 homes would be built in the city, have fallen through, and Wednesday afternoon the city council's finance committee ordered the matter to be struck off its agenda.

The proposal was submitted to the city commissioners last spring with the request that a block of land in the Queen Mary Park district be set aside for the building project.

This property, which lies west of 109 to 114 streets and from 108 to 111 avenues, is not served by utilities, and the city commissioners intimated to the sponsors of the project it would be impossible for the city to finance the installation of these utilities at present. It was estimated the cost of installation would be $307,000.

ALTERNATIVE SITE

An alternative site was proposed by the city commissioners but the sponsors of the project intimated recently that this was not acceptable to their American principals. They urged that the original plan be given further consideration by the committee.

Committee members were of the opinion it was impossible at present to finance the extension of utilities to the park site and ordered the proposal struck from the agenda.

Wage Issue Said Municipal Onus

Application of Civic Union No. 30 for the appointment of a conciliation board to mediate in the wage dispute between members of the union and the city has been denied by the Federal department of labor, according to an advice received by city commissioners from F. E. Harrison, federal department of labor's representative in western Canada.

In his communication, Mr. Harrison states that "in the view of the federal labor department the dispute does not come under the Federal Industrial Disputes Investigation Act and that the matter should be one for negotiation between the city and the employees, and that failing settlement by negotiation it should be referred to the provincial government."

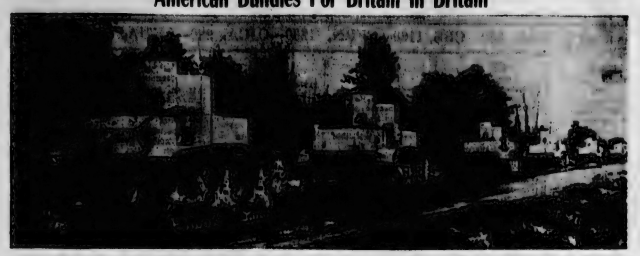

The members of Civic Union No. 30 are asking for pay for statutory holidays or, in the alternative, an increase in pay commensurate with the increased cost of living.

Malcolm Ainslie, president of the union, is at present on holiday, and it is not known what step union officials will take next in their efforts to have the city meet their wage increase request.

Woman Queried By Canvasser: Police Piqued

Police are on the lookout for a self-appointed census-taker, who bothered at least one citizen Wednesday. Mrs. Slyvia Cohen of 11322 100 avenue, informed police that a man came to her house and asked a number of questions, stating he was authorized to do so by some eastern corporation.

Questions asked were: "What radio program do you like best?" "Do you like Canadian or American news best?" "Do you approve of labor strikes?" "Do you think big business is taking more profits in wartime?"

Although it is not certain there is anything illegal in the actions of the man, police would like to ask him a few questions. He is described as a man of from 30 to 35 years of age, 5 feet 11 inches in height, tanned complexion with blue eyes, wearing spectacles. He was wearing a blue suit and blue shirt with a panama hat.

Rains Improve Northern Crop

Heavy rains over last week-end has greatly improved crop conditions in the district bordering the Northern Alberta Railways lines, a railways crop report issued Thursday states.

Grain had been ripening too fast in many places and the heavy rain will retard its process and permit filling of heads.

Cutting, which had started in several places, will be delayed for some days, but will soon be general.

Although there has been slight damage through lodging, prospects are generally good, the report states.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Since American long-range flying boats have been operating in Australia, German raiders have not sunk a single Australian ship within a 1,000-mile radius of that country, Capt. L. J. Brain said Wednesday upon his arrival by Clipper plane.

Brain, operations manager of the Quantas Empire Airways, operating from Sydney to Singapore, came here to inspect west coast aircraft factories.

"The big American flying boats are able to spot the German raiders at great distances," said Brain in an interview in which he praised Australia's aircraft production and described it as being far ahead of schedule.

Music Great Creative Art Clubmen Told

Declaring that music is the greatest creative art, R. A. Canfield, well known Edmonton composer, in addressing the regular Lions' club meeting at the Macdonald hotel Thursday, stated that in his opinion "Writing music is easier than writing fiction. It's also more engrossing, which goes to prove its greatness as a creative art."

"It has become known to a very limited number of people that I write music," he said. "Unfortunately the number is very limited. A few months ago, after they heard my first composition, 'I'll Never Be the Same Again, they used to say, 'I didn't know you wrote music.'

"The truth is they found it out only a few days after I did myself. But as I say there are too few who know I have written musical numbers. And until this has been changed there will be probably little more to tell."

CREATIVE ART

"Music has been called the greatest creative art." Mr. Canfield said. "I'm not qualified to deny this even if I wanted to. However, I've done a little story writing and I will say that I've found writing music is easier than writing fiction. It's also more engrossing which goes to prove its greatness as a creative art.

"There are points of similarity, of course. What is called atmosphere in a story would probably be called mood in music. A musical composition tells a story, too. It's more than in the words of lyrics. It's in the melody and the harmony and in the impressions created on the hearer. Of course the lyrics should suit the mood of the music and if they do the story is told more effectively."

He completed his discussion by playing his latest number, "V For Victory."

British Left In Crete Are Waging Guerrilla Warfare

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP)—The Daily Mail, in an Alexandria dispatch, said today that 1,000 British troops and marines have been waging guerilla warfare in Crete for more than two months.

The British troops, living in mountain caves, have been raiding the Germans every night, ambing and ambushing them by day, filching their food and weapons and sabotaging their supplies, the newspaper said.

They have allied themselves with hardy mountain Cretans who still are unsubdued, the dispatch said.

LISBON, Aug. 7—(AP)—Alfred Duff Cooper, former minister of information who is en route to the east on a special war co-ordinator for the British cabinet, arrived here Wednesday and said he and his wife, Lady Diana Duff Cooper, would leave for New York by clipper plane today.

Mr. Duff Cooper said he is going by way of the United States "to see some acquaintances in the state department and because the trip is more comfortable."

Decrease For Hog Price Is Reported Here

Decline in prices paid here for heavy sows and other off-grade hogs has resulted from the closing of the United States' market to Alberta hogs, stockmen said Thursday.

Heavy sows at live weight were bringing about six cents per pound or about $6 per hundred-weight Thursday, but before July 28 a heavy sow graded "smooth" would have brought about $8.50 or $8.75 per hundredweight, the stockmen said.

PROTECTION ASKED

Representations to the minister of agriculture at Ottawa have been made by the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, urging protection of producers' interests, claiming that the heavy sows have no place in the British export market, whereas there is a demand for this quality of animal in the U.S.

At the annual meeting of delegates in Calgary a resolution was adopted asking that "in fairness to the farmers of the west settlement for hogs be adjusted to the price levels existing in the U.S."

In their representations, officers of the federation state Alberta farmers are behind every effort of the Canadian government to make food available to the British people, but they resent closure of a market for a product not suited for export to Britain.

Europeans Listen In On Broadcasts From Gt. Britain

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP)—F. W. Ogilvie, director general of the British Broadcasting Corporation, said Wednesday in a radio discussion with Sir Frederick White that the people of Europe are listening more and more to BBC broadcasts despite Nazi orders forbidding them to do so. The British Broadcasting Corporation reported last night.

"Even Goebbels (Joseph Goebbels, German propaganda minister) is listening to them himself," said Mr. Ogilvie, "and he has had to take more and more notice of these broadcasts."

Mr. Ogilvie said there now are six overseas services in 39 languages with a daily output of about a quarter of a million words.

Queen Wilhelmina Of Holland Retains Position Of Ruler

By HOMER JENKS

LONDON, Aug. 7—(BUP)—Queen Wilhelmina, despite her 60 years, interviews every subject who comes to call on the Queen of England. Exile has intensified her determination to be more than a figurehead to the 7,000,000 people whose destinies she still rules and already she is planning the day when she can join the 8,000,000 subjects living now under German domination.

However, even as she broadcasts messages of hope to her homeland, the shadow of Axis domination, falling across the Pacific, threatens the biggest and most lucrative part of her empire—the Netherlands East Indies.

In these Pacific islands, rich in oil and minerals coveted by Japan, dwell 68,000,000 of her subjects.

Since coming to England, it is said, she has insisted on taking even greater part in government, her empire, which in addition to the East Indies includes the Dutch West Indies and Dutch Guiana. Since there is no Dutch parliament now, she has taken upon herself the job of keeping a check on her cabinet ministers and does not hesitate to let them know her views," a well-informed Dutchman said.

Wilhelmina, who spends most of her time at her country home, which once was the mansion of a titled English woman, rises at 6 a.m. All London newspapers except the tabloids along with the latest Dutch newspapers received by way of Lisbon are brought with her breakfast table.

She then reviews the latest dispatches from government officials, perhaps confers with a cabinet minister or adviser, and once or twice a week motors 30 miles to London in a Jitney, her only American-made car flying the small Netherlands flag.

Her town house, which also quarters offices of the army and navy and two personal aides-de-camp, is a 12-room semi-detached house in Chester Square not far from the residence in Eaton Square where she went through the heavy German air raids of last fall.

Wilhelmina's favorite visitor at her town house is Anthony Drexel Biddle, U.S. ambassador to the exiled government in London. She took an instant liking to him and now asks his advice on non-political matters.

Minute Make-Ups

Put an ice cube in an old linen handkerchief. Smooth over face and throat. After skin is cleansed, quickly blend in foundation cream; just enough to give a mat finish. Now smooth again with the ice cube. Use lipstick but no powder. This is a cool summer make-up.

Gladstone Murray Arrives Overseas

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(CP)—Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, arrived in Britain by bomber yesterday. He plans to confer with British Broadcasting Corporation officials on various matters. Today he visited the C.B.C. offices here and looked over the overseas set-up.

JASPER JOTTINGS

By FAY PARKER

JASPER, Aug. 7—Monday was the birthday of Queen Elizabeth and many will recall the delightful visit of Their Majesties in Jasper Park more than two years ago. They visited Mt. Edith Cavell and the Maligne Canyon and watched the beavers in the little pool near the Canyon road until darkness fell. The same beavers, locally called "The Royal Beavers", still attract the attention of Park visitors and these, like Queen Elizabeth, gather beaver chips to take as souvenirs of these busy little workers.

On Sunday, H.R.H. the Duke of Kent, brother of King George, will arrive in Jasper Park for a two-day rest period on his inspection trip across Canada. He will probably occupy the same lovely rustic cabin at Jasper Park Lodge and although no formal program has been arranged for his stay in the Park, he will no doubt visit both the Canyon and Mt. Edith Cavell. It is also possible that he will motor over the Jasper-Banff highway to the Columbia Icefields. This highway was not completed at the time of Their Majesties' visit. A special train on Wednesday morning will take the Duke of Kent to Edmonton for an inspection of the training centres there.

The Jasper branch of the Canadian Red Cross held a tag day last Saturday in aid of the Ambulance Fund. The branch plan to purchase an ambulance for overseas early this fall and on Saturday the tag-gers raised $110.00 in the village of Jasper and $75.00 at Jasper Park Lodge.

Fusilier Gets Silver Medal For Shooting

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin
SARCEE CAMP, Aug. 7—In an impressive military ceremony, a presentation was made Wednesday on the battalion parade ground here of a silver medal for the best shot in the 2nd Bn., Edmonton Fusiliers (R.C.A. It was awarded to Cpl. W. G. Threifell of Lacombe, member of "D" company, who won the regimental championship in the winter indoor miniature range competition.

In the absence at camp of Cpl. Threifell, the medal was presented by Lt.-Col. H. B. Jamieson, commanding officer of the regiment, to Capt. J. McDonald, M.C., commander of "D" company. The medal was given by Maj. W. Thompson, who has donated a similar medal for competition in each succeeding year.

At the same time the commanding officer made a formal presentation of a shield donated by himself for annual marksmanship competition on which the names of the best shots in each company are engraved each year. The winners in this contest were: Cpl. Threifell, Pte. L. Barlow, Headquarters Coy.; Fus. C. Howard, "A" Coy.; Fus. J. Bunyan, "B" Coy.; and Fus. R. W. Pellatt, "C" Coy.

The battalion formed up in "mass" for the presentation ceremony and officers took posts in order. The medal was handed to the colonel by R.S.M. W. M. Gordon, M.M., who presented it to Capt. McDonald. Present at the ceremony was Maj. J. B. Black, M.C., former commander of "D" company and now attached to the 2nd Corps Troops, Petrol Park, R.C.A.S.C.

Col. Jamieson told the battalion that the contest had been keenly contested and difficult to judge. It had been necessary to "shoot off" three times to determine the award of the medal. Cpl. Threifell scored 21 "bulls" out of a possible 21.

NEW MESSING PLAN ADOPTED AT CAMP

SARCEE CAMP, CALGARY, Aug. 7.—What is believed to be the only system of its kind for mass feeding of troops in training in any reserve camp in the Dominion, got under way here Tuesday when the Second Battalion, Edmonton Regiment, (R.C.A.), introduced "orderly messing" with non-commissioned officers and men.

The system, the "baby" of Lieut. Bert Millar, battalion quartermaster, consists of having the men take their plates at their own table for every meal. In this way the men become acquainted with their messmates. Then the men at each table select orderlies who enter the cookhouse, fetch the sufficient plates for the table, and the eating gets underway." After the meal, each orderly washes his own plate in a large vat of soap and water. They then dip the utensils in a bucket of disinfectant and return the plates to the table for the next meal.

PLENTY OF TIME

Lieut. Millar, who timed the system when it was first used, found that from the time the first man enters the cook-house to draw rations for his table to the time the last man leaves the table, except in main his plates, it takes just a few moments less than 35 minutes, leaving the men with plenty of time to relax in between drill periods.

In past years, the men lined up outside the cook-house, drew their rations and filed into their messroom. After that, plates were washed by the cooks, which meant that much of the time they could have devoted to cooking up fancy meals for the men was wasted in dishwashing. It is easy to see why each man in less than a minute's time.

WIN GRATITUDE

The quartermaster-stores of the battalion and its orderly, consisting of Pte. J. Bell, R.S.M. A. A. Waithe, C.Q.M.S. "Robbie" Robinson, C.Q.M.S. Tommy Cross and C.S.M.S. Tommy Kidd, also received the gratitude of the men of the battalion with their unceasing labors on the cook-house.

Together with members of the advance party, under the direction of Cpl. Geo. Cox, they worked in thick mud and pouring rain all day Saturday and Sunday to have tents and other equipment ready for the men. Cpl. H. L. "Howie" Watson, and Cpl. Wilson, during duty spells on Sunday, were also of much aid, due to the wait to drive in tent pegs.

Other men of the regiment, all civilians, and most of them business men in Edmonton, are putting everything they've got behind learning as much as possible in two short weeks, of the rudiments of army life.

Calgarian Made Supervisor For Legion Services

CALGARY, Aug. 7—(CP)—Civic activities for the past 26 years, J. W. "Jock" Jenkinson, of the city license office, has been appointed supervisor of the Canadian Legion War Services, Inc., in M.D. 13, Calgary, it was announced Wednesday.

Duke Of Kent Inspects Guard Of Honor

From a hot blue sky, a silver red-nosed monoplane carrying His Royal Highness Air Commodore the Duke of Kent, came to a perfect landing on the airport at Trenton, Ont., last Saturday. The weather was made to order for his visit. The shining plane came from the east, bearing a small royal standard. One hundred picked men of the guard of honor snapped to attention. A royal fanfare was sounded by four buglers. The duke, above, accompanied by Sir Louis Greig, his aide-de-camp, and the Trenton welcoming officers, slowly inspected the guard. Often the duke singled out men and talked with them.

Drum Major — By Vida Hurst

KATHLEEN O'CONNOR, nearing 18, is being forced into a career by her father, MATTHEW, who has trained her as a drum major and entered her in a beauty contest to gain publicity for her. Kathleen craves romance and a home. She loves JIMMY CRANE, whom she met after her father brought her to San Francisco to study voice, leaving behind a very special friend, DEAN. Matthew has forbidden Jimmy ever to see Kathleen again but her AUNT NORA O'CONNOR has promised to try to help her. She invites Jimmy to her house but he declines, saying he has a previous engagement. On the night of the proposed meeting Dean comes to San Francisco and takes Kathleen out. They run into Jimmy with another girl. After that, Kathleen absorbs herself in her voice lessons while her father impatiently wants to get her in the limelight. He arranges to have Kathleen sing for SAMMY MARTIN, a Hollywood song plugger. Impressed by her, Martin asks Kathleen to have dinner with him that evening. Though she goes with him, and several more times, he says nothing about her voice, mentions a screen test. Aunt Nora decides to take things into her own hands.

"Did you ask me here to talk about Kathleen or to fix your typewriter?" Jimmy demanded.

"I wanted to meet you," Aunt Nora admitted. "And since you refused my invitation it seemed the only way."

CHAPTER TWENTY

NORA O'CONNOR had not touched a typewriter for years. The only one she possessed was a portable which had been accumulating dust on a closet shelf behind a pile of boxes, discarded book ends and old pictures which Nora did not want but couldn't quite bring herself to throw away.

Being a woman of infinite resources she dug out the typewriter and set it on a card table in her living room as bait for Jimmy Crane. There was, she reflected, no question as to its need for overhauling.

Her tone when she called the typewriting company Kathleen had mentioned was briskly efficient.

"I want to speak to the head of the service department, please."

BUSY WOMAN

To the voice which replied she explained that she was a very busy woman and needed her typewriter that night to make out some reports. Could they send someone who knew his business to take care of it that same evening.

"I care where it comes," Nora said recklessly, "but it must be fixed so that I can use it immediately."

"I'll come myself," the voice reassured her. "What time this evening will you be at home?"

When Nora gave her name, he apparently did not recognize it. It might not be Jimmy talking, but he spoke with such authority that she rather thought it was. She was sure of it when she opened her door to him that evening. But if the good looking, quiet mannered young man, realized that she was Kathleen's aunt he gave no sign.

He smiled as he asked, "You are having typewriter trouble?"

"I certainly am," Nora replied.

She sat by the fire, apparently absorbed in her cigaret, as he went over the machine on the table with swiftly competent fingers.

"You've had this quite a while, haven't you?" Jimmy remarked pleasantly.

"Several years," Nora confessed.

"I'm surprised that you're able to use it at all, Miss O'Connor."

Nora said, "Well, I haven't much use for a typewriter except on occasions like this when I haven't time to make out my reports during the day."

"I really ought to take it in to the shop," he suggested, but Nora cried, "Oh, no, I can't wait for that. Just fix it up as well as you can here."

As he went about his business, she noticed with approval his clever, efficient hands the firm, clean line of his jaw, the honest, gray eyes.

"I like him," Nora decided. She prided herself on her ability to judge character. "He's proud and stubborn as a mule. But he's okay."

PHOTOGRAPH

There was a photograph of Kathleen in the sequin costume on the piano. Nora had placed it there deliberately, but Jimmy ignored it. He worked silently and now that she had him here Nora began to wonder what she was going to do next.

Finally she said, "Do you think you can finish it tonight, Mr. . . . I don't believe you told me your name."

He paused and looked her straight in the eyes.

"I am Jimmy Crane."

"Oh, Jimmy Crane!" Nora repeated with assumed surprise. "Why you must be the same Jimmy Crane my niece has told me about."

He did not reply so she was forced to continue.

"Didn't she ask you here one Sunday?"

"I couldn't come," he explained.

If only he would stop working on that old typewriter and talk to her, Nora thought. She wasn't getting anywhere this way.

"Kathleen thought you refused because you didn't really care about her," Nora declared boldly. "If that is true, we'll say no more about it. But you see I'm so much older that I felt you accepted her father's decision because you considered it the reasonable thing to do."

At last she had succeeded in piercing his reserve.

"Did you ask me here to talk about Kathleen or to fix your typewriter?" Jimmy demanded.

"I wanted to meet you," she admitted. "And since you refused my invitation it seemed the only way."

"Don't you want this machine repaired?" he insisted.

"No! Let's put our cards on the table and be frank with each other. My brother means well, but I do not agree with him in this matter of a career for Kathleen. I don't think he realizes what he is getting her into; the kind of people she will have to deal with or her total lack of experience in handling them. Let the typewriter go, Jimmy! Please sit down and have a cigaret with me."

He hesitated for a moment then accepted her suggestion and seated himself opposite her.

"I appreciate your motives," Nora continued. "But it won't be long now until Kathleen will be 18. Meantime she needs you. Would it make any difference if you could see her with my approval and cooperation?"

"Does Kathleen know about this?" he asked in turn.

"No," Nora said honestly. "It's my own idea."

"But why? Why should it mean so much to you?"

"You haven't answered my question yet," Nora reminded him.

Jimmy smiled.

"Yes, I suppose it would. I've never intended to give her up for good. I didn't know if she'd feel the same way about me by the time she was 18, but I'm sure a few months won't make any difference to me."

"You asked me why I am so concerned," Nora said, deciding not to mention the song plugger. "It's because I've learned to love Kathleen as if she were my own. Her father is trying to persuade her to go to Hollywood. If she thinks you no longer care about her she may go. And I don't want that to happen, Jimmy! How do you understand?"

"Yes," he said. "I don't want it to happen either. She doesn't belong down there. It will do something to her. She will never be the same again."

Nora held out her hand.

"She is having dinner with me tomorrow night. Would you like to drop in afterwards?"

"I would," he agreed. As he took up his hat, he said, "Are you sure you don't want me to take that typewriter into the shop and go over it for you? It isn't much good, but I can probably fix it so you can use it."

"I haven't needed a typewriter for years," Nora said blithely. "I won't need one again unless you fail to show up tomorrow."

Jimmy grinned.

"Don't worry! I'll be here. Nothing can keep me away."

After he had gone, Nora sat by the fire for a long time.

"Well, my dear," she said to the picture on the piano, "I think this will take care of your song plugger."

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

HAVING learned by this time not to call her aunt at the store, Kathleen telephoned before. Nora left her apartment the following morning saying, "Would you mind if I don't have dinner with you tonight?"

"I would," Nora said, promptly. "I haven't seen you for almost a week."

"I know, Aunt Nora, but Daddy thought it wouldn't make any difference. You see Sammy is going back to Hollywood Sunday."

"That's too bad. But I have already refused another engagement myself. I want to talk to you," Nora said tartly, "and if I can arrange my time, it seems you should be able to."

"Of course," the girl cried loyally. "I didn't know it mattered, but I'll be there as usual."

"Well, see that you are," Nora replied.

She was smiling as she replaced the telephone. For once she was beating Matt at his own game. Playing on the affection of his daughter which she had won for herself during the past two months. Bless her heart!

If Kathleen had suspected that Jimmy was going to be here, she would never have suggested breaking their date.

Kathleen was waiting at the apartment as she often was when they dined together. She was looking tired, Nora observed, anxious too, for fear she had offended her aunt.

"Are you mad at me?" Kathleen demanded kissing her.

Nora smiled.

"Not in the least. I just wasn't going to be turned down for your friend from Hollywood."

"But, darling, Sammy has promised me a screen test. I have to be nice to him."

"His promises probably don't mean a thing," Nora said breezily. "Sit down, chicken. We're going to have dinner up here."

Kathleen touched a match to the kindling in the fireplace which leaped into flame.

"That's not fair. You don't even know him. I don't think he would make a promise if he didn't intend to keep it. You see, Aunt Nora, it's all a matter of contacts and Sammy has them."

Nora O'Connor sighed.

"You don't belong in Hollywood, Kathleen! After you've had the screen test, what? You don't suppose for one minute that this song plugger can get you a contract?"

"Daddy thinks he can. I don't know. Stranger things have happened."

BABES IN WOOD

"You and your father are both a couple of babes in the wood. And while I am not acquainted with this particular specimen, I do know men. I know they will offer you anything if you're young and pretty and gullible enough to believe in them."

"He says he's falling in love with me," Kathleen said thoughtfully.

Nora sniffed.

"For all you know the man may be married."

"Oh, no, Aunt Nora, I'm sure he isn't. If he were he wouldn't be taking me around as he has. Introducing me to his friends."

Nora was at the telephone ordering dinner. When she had finished she said, "That's what you think. And how about Jimmy? Have you forgotten him?"

Her keen eyes caught the sadness which spread over the girl's face.

"Jimmy doesn't care about me. He never did. That's why I've had to be interested in something else. I thought you understood."

"I understand all right," Nora assured her. "And now let's have our dinner. I'm hungry and you look as if you hadn't had a square meal for days."

Kathleen smiled.

"By the time Sammy gets around to eating I'm past caring for food," she admitted. "But I've learned to fortify myself with a glass of milk and a sandwich before I meet him."

They dined leisurely but Nora's eyes were constantly seeking the clock. She wanted the dishes cleared away before Jimmy arrived. And this had just been accomplished when the telephone announced that he was in the lobby.

"Send him up," she directed.

"Company?" Kathleen inquired.

"Just a young man who wants to see me on business," Nora replied but her heart was beating so fast anyone would think it was her own sweetheart. "I must be getting old," she thought, "to get so excited over something which doesn't really concern me."

When the bell rang she said, "Answer it, will you?"

UNPREPARED

Kathleen opened the door. She was completely unprepared for a sight of Jimmy Crane.

"Jimmy!" she cried. "Oh, Jimmy, what are you doing here?"

Her astonishment was so obvious he could not have doubted it.

"Didn't your aunt tell you?"

"Certainly not! Do you mean she asked you?"

"Of course I asked him," Nora declared. "Come in, Jimmy, and close the door."

Kathleen was looking at Jimmy as if she had never expected to see him again.

"Sit down, children!" Nora continued. "And make yourselves at home. I'm going to my bedroom for awhile. There are some magazines I want to read."

Her excuse was unnecessary. They did not even hear it. But as the door closed behind her they became suddenly conscious that they were alone.

"How've you been?" Jimmy inquired seating himself.

"Fine! And you?"

"Okay! Your aunt tells me you are planning to go to Hollywood."

"Where did you meet my aunt?" Kathleen asked, still bewildered. "I didn't know she knew you."

Jimmy grinned.

"Well, it seems she was having trouble with her typewriter and sent for me to fix it. Your picture was on the piano and we just got to talking. You know how those things are."

"I didn't even know she had a typewriter. And my picture is never on the piano. The only photograph she keeps out is one in her bedroom."

"Yours was on the piano last night," he insisted. "Maybe it was just a part of her stage setting. Because she wanted an excuse to talk to me."

"What about?"

"Why," he replied. "Your aunt is a swell person, Kathleen! At first I couldn't see why she should be so interested, but now I think we understand each other. She told me you thought the reason I wouldn't see you was because I didn't really care."

"Oh, Jimmy," she cried. "Do you?"

He was beside her now, taking both her hands in his.

"Would I be here if I didn't?" he demanded.
